Gagged and Bound they Gulph Down Greeley and Brown.

Tammany, in Ecstasy, Fires One Hundred Guns.

Tweed and Fish Respond to the Nomination of their Apologist.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

BALTIMORE, July 10.—At last the agony is over. With many expressions of extreme disgust, with some weak and vain attempts to hike the dose, the Democracy have swallowed Greeley, Brown and the Cincinnati platform. From first to last this affair has been the ghastliest of political shows. From beginning to end there has hardly been an endeavor to disguise the truth that only because of the delusion that through Greeley lies the only way to repeat at Washington the achievements of the Tammany gang in New-York, Greeley has been taken. Already it is apparent, the Democracy have abandoned the plan of trying to rush their puppet through by a burst of popular enthusiasm, and that their sole reliance is upon the discipline of the party which has so often carried the organization into absurdities and political crimes.

THE FINAL SCENE OPENS.

When the Convention assembled at 10 o'clock this morning, it was evident that the season was to be more intolerable than that of the previous day. The day was much warmer, and although the building was no more crowded than on the prior occasion, the session being held in the middle of the day, the heat was dangerously intense. There was a manifest desire to get through as soon as possible, and Doolittle calling to order promptly, the report of the Committee on Resolutions, which was the Cincinnati platform verbatim, was read at once. It was greeted with a few shouts from the delegates and with applause from the galleries, but the portion which met with most enthusiasm was that which declared that no President should be re-elected, the Democracy evidently being delighted that they were not to have two years of Greeley. At the conclusion of the reading a score of men jumped up and yelled, and there were cheers from about half the delegates.

THE GAG APPLIED.

Mr. Burr, of Connecticut, Chairman of the Committee, then announced that this platform had been adopted with only the dissenting votes of Delaware, Georgia and Mississippi, and moved the previous question on its adoption by the Convention. Instantly there was a scene of great confusion, and all attempts to keep the Greeley influences which are at work in the Democratic ranks out of sight were futile. Senator Bayard, of Delaware, rose to a question of order, and bitterly protested against the gag law being enforced upon the Democracy, but he was ruled down by Doolittle. A dozen other members sprung up in different parts of the house to join in the protest, but Doolittle ruled all debate out of order, and after some minutes of wild confusion, the roll-call of the States on sustaining the previous question was proceeded with. There was some disorder during the call, but it was finally concluded and the result announced as 638 yeas to 176 nays.

DISCUSSION READY TO BREAK OUT.

The previous question being sustained, Burr had an hour under the rules to close the debate, which had not been allowed, and he gave ten minutes to Mr. Bayard. That gentleman spoke from the platform, making a strong argument for the true Democracy, and against the surrender to Greeley, which was greeted with cheers and hisses. At this moment, it was observable that the Convention had no little of heartiness in its work that it a strong, magnetic speaker like Voorhees, of Indiana, had been in the place of Bayard, the Greeley economy might have been defeated. Bayard had his time extended, so that he spoke altogether twenty minutes, but without much effect, as his voice was not powerful enough to fill the house. After him O'Connor, of South Carolina, made a stirring appeal for the surrender, in which he managed to show that the Democracy had been totally wrong on every political issue for the last twenty years. After him Reagan, of Texas, who was Jeff. Davis' Postmaster-General, made an appeal in behalf of the ballot of his rebel master, after which many of the delegates, remembering former reports began to call "time." There was then a demand that the resolutions should be voted upon separately, which was met with cries of "No," "No," from the vessel majority. The call of States then commenced, but the Alabama delegation, the first, wanting to explain, an objection being made, refused to vote. The call proceeded, and during its progress showed the following negative votes: Delaware, 6; Georgia, 19; Mississippi, 9; Missouri, 2; New-Jersey, 8; Oregon, 6; Pennsylvania, 7, and West Virginia, 2, with nine in Tennessee which were not allowed to be counted in consequence of the whole vote being cast in the Condition of the majority. There was great confusion during the call, the votes of the several States being greeted with cheers and hisses, and the result was at last announced as—Yeas 670, nays 62.

BOZEMAN'S LITTLE DODGE.

There was then a motion made and adopted to go into the nomination of President, whereupon Gov. Hoffman made a desperate attempt to manufacture some Greeley enthusiasm, by handing up a roll of a paper which he said was signed by 15,000 Germans of the City of New-York who would support Greeley and Brown. But those who were upon the platform were in sufficient enough to allow this document for the sake of effect to be unrolled and stretched across the house. Thereby everybody could see that it was about 100 feet long, and those who were near enough to scan the thing, saw that the names were half an inch apart. This ruse gave doubts of the sanacity of the Governor of New-York, as a slight calculation showed that there could not be more than 5,000 names appended to the resolution praying for Greeley.

THE NEXT THING ON THE PROGRAMME.

After this [illegible] tion—which was a [illegible] with only a few [illegible] upon the [illegible] President. Also [illegible] and, of course, led [illegible] There was a decided [illegible] surrender with defiant [illegible] to their foes and [illegible] general idea that [illegible] were loved [illegible] Cox was [illegible] Governor Hoffman [illegible] Yorkers, but without much success. The result was a failure, and the sentiment was declared to prove a failure to the end. Presently Delaware moved the latest disfranchisement by giving her six votes to James A. Bayard. Florida cast a blank and Georgia 1 vote. There was an attempt to get up a scene over the 48 of Illinois for Greeley, which was a failure, and a little scene attended a like effort when Iowa was called and voted solid for the "Sage."

THE CLIMAX OF DULLNESS.

Here the pivotal point of this scene of prepared enthusiasm, which it was expected would be unparalleled, was reached. John T. Hoffman was the idol of most women in this Convention. Of magnetic appearance, persuasive powers and great power in rousing large masses of men, it was expected that his speech, when New-York was called, would at least for this Convention, take something up resembling the power display at Philadelphia. Through all the roll-call down to this point, it had been whispered through the house, "Wait for New-York. Wait until Hoffman speaks, then let us all get up and yell." But it was beyond Hoffman's power to revive a corpse. The man who had so often roused living assemblages to the highest point saw his words fall without power upon this mass before him. Twice or thrice a few feeble cheers greeted him, and when he concluded, and announced seventy votes for Horace Greeley, not more than one of all that body of delegates rose to their feet and cheered. There was nothing approaching even a general outburst of applause. After this failure the ballot went on with even less of life. Presently Pennsylvania was reached, and unexpectedly to all, its vote was announced as only 38 for Greeley, 32 for Jeremiah S. Black, and two blank. This was a damper, and from this point out the Convention never revived from the shock. True, all the votes except two given by West Virginia for Groesbeck were given to Greeley, and it was evident he was the nominee of the Democratic Party for President of the United States by more than the two-thirds required by the long-established usages of the party; but there was no joy in that fact, or if there was it was concealed with most consummate art. Here let me say distinctly, without any intention to color the truth in the least degree, that I watched this scene down to this point closely; I watched it for the purpose of stating plainly the facts as I could see them, and that having so watched I must say that, although occasionally there had been cheers, and that one or two occasions perhaps a third of the Convention had risen and yelled with some degree of vigor, and although from the start there was an evident straining for enthusiasm that never appeared, yet from first to last there was nothing approaching to a real, spontaneous outburst of enthusiasm such as would be called forth by any nominee of any party, if it was felt that the nominee was the man of the hour, and that his election was a matter of vital importance to the country. The Democratic Party, the conference of Democrats from different parts of the Union has been convened, to give some action of the kind and which of our Democratic brethren, who have been so long estranged, as a preliminary to and a manifestation of our unity of purpose, we hereby declare.

That the aforesaid proceedings of the said National Convention are a virtual dissolution of the historic existence of organization of the Democratic Party, they are an unconstitutional abandonment of the principles of the Democratic Party and the promulgation of such as irreconciliable with them. That in so far as the Democratic Party has been false to its obligation of duty, to principles, to regard for consistence, and to every sentiment of political honor, and at the same time the Republican Party has been adhering to its principles, and can make nominations which Democrats are bound to support only by making candidates who are known and recognized Democrats, the action of the Convention, which is forced, and far from being binding, as the action of the Democratic Party, should be spurned by all true Democrats and resisted with unyielding tenacity and to the utmost extremity. Resolved, That Democracy is dead if ever it can be, while the principles of our fathers are cherished by even a few devoted hearts, we come and again fling to the breeze for all true Democrats, as they rally around the banner of Jefferson, and find a common inspiration in the principles which it represents, dreaming these principles to posterity living and enduring times.

That the system of Government established by our fathers, which we hold to be the best yet devised, we hold to the doctrine of State Rights and of a strict construction of the Federal Constitution, as defined by Thomas Jefferson, believing their effective recognition to be the best and only guarantee of the free political institutions and the perpetuation of popular liberty in this country, and to those essential principles of government enumerated by him in his first inaugural address, which we quote as applicable to our time and condition, consisting of the admirable and ever-important propositions—"Equal and exact justice to all men, of whatever state or persuasion, religious or political;" "peace, commerce and honest friendship with all nations, entangling alliances with none;" "a well-disciplined militia our best reliance in peace and for the first moments of war till regulars may relieve them;" "the supremacy of the civil over the military authority;" "freedom of religion;" "freedom of the Press;" "freedom of the person under the protection of the habeas corpus;" "trial by juries impartial;" "free elections;" "free education;" "that Mr. Jefferson declared to be the sum of good government;" "a wise and frugal Government which shall restrain men from injuring one another, which shall leave them otherwise free to regulate their own pursuits of industry and improvement, and shall not take from the mouth of labor the bread it has earned."

We recommend over the Democratic fellow-citizens in the several States to form Democratic State organizations, and do all in their power to check the growing defection from true Democratic principles; and we further suggest and recommend that a Convention be held at Louisville, in Kentucky, on the first of September, 1872, to take such steps as may be deemed proper and essential.

Mr. Bigley made a proposition to proceed to the nomination of a candidate for President and Vice-President of the United States, but by consent it was laid upon the table. Mr. Pickmore moved that the following be incorporated in the platform:

1st.—An act of universal amnesty and the restoration of political rights.

3d.—The extension of the Franchise laws to the soldiers of the Union.

4th.—Payment for the liberated slaves from the National Treasury.

5th.—A change in the national flag to make it acceptable to the people of the whole country.

Mr. Flanders said this was not the place to entertain the motion just then, and it was withdrawn. The Convention then adjourned.

A WRETCHED CREW.

Without faith in the present, without encouragement for the future, ashamed of what they have done, fearful that they will have no recompense for the sacrifice which they have made, the Democratic delegates this evening are scattering to their homes. Horace Greeley has been hoisted, swallowed without question, but he sits uneasy upon the Democratic stomach, and with the call for the Louisville Convention staring them in the face as they departed they went to their homes with a fear that their abandonment of principle, their acceptance of their greatest enemy for their candidate, had been without avail. SCENES AND INCIDENTS.

Applying the Gag—Vigorous but Ineffectual Kicking During the Operation.

A. E. Burr, Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, announced that the Committee were ready to report, and asked the clerk to read in the first place the introductory paragraph of the report, which is all of the report written by the Committee, and has already been printed. Mr. Burr continued after the reading of the report had been read: Mr. Chairman, these resolutions embrace the Cincinnati platform, word for word; nothing taken from it, nothing added, except the short preamble. The resolutions were adopted by every State in the Union except four, viz: Delaware, Mississippi, Georgia and Oregon. Having been adopted with that unusual degree of unanimity, Mr. President, I move the adoption of the resolutions as a whole; and on this I move the previous question.

The PRESIDENT.—Mr. Burr, of the Committee on Resolutions, reports from that Committee a platform and moves its adoption, and on that motion he asks the previous question.

Senator BAYARD, of Delaware—I rise to a question of order. Is the previous question a parliamentary or gag-law—borrowed from the laws of a Democratic Convention, without notice to the delegates? [Loud cries of "No," and cheers and hisses.]

The PRESIDENT.—The Chair overrules the point of order. The pending question is not debatable. The question is, shall the previous question that the Convention has adopted, by unanimous vote, as the rules to govern its proceedings, the rules of the House of Representatives. The motion for the previous question is in order under one of those rules, which are essential to the transaction of business in large bodies of men.

Senator BAYARD, of Delaware—I ask that the Chairman withdraw his call for the previous question for the period of at least ten minutes, that the minority may be heard. [Cries of "No," and much confusion.]

The PRESIDENT.—The appeal is made by the gentleman from Delaware to the Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, and not to anybody else.

Mr. BAILEY, of Pennsylvania—I second the appeal in behalf of the delegation from Pennsylvania. [Cries of "Question."]

Mr. BURR—I would conceded what the gentleman asks with the greatest pleasure, but I am unmanageable from the Congressional gag, and cannot yield the point, and must insist upon the motion I make.

Senator BAYARD—I wish to appeal to the sense of manhood of the Democratic Party, and appeal to the self-respect. Are you deaf to the voice of your Senator?

The PRESIDENT.—The gentleman from Delaware will come to order.

Hon. G. SAULSBURY, of Delaware—I pay this proceeding is brutal. It is unjust to the Democracy of this country.

The PRESIDENT—The question is, Will the House sustain the previous question? [Cries of "Yes" and "No."]

A DELEGATE—Call the roll of States.

The PRESIDENT—The Secretary will call the roll. The roll call resulted in 675 yeas, 110 nays, as follows:

YEAS—Alabama, 16; Arkansas, 12; California, 12; Connecticut, 13; Florida, 6; Georgia, 11; Illinois, 42; Indiana, 26; Iowa, 26; Kansas, 10; Kentucky, 34; Louisiana, 8; Maine, 14; Maryland, 16; Massachusetts, 24; Michigan, 21; Minnesota, 10; Missouri, 34; Nebraska, 6; New-Hampshire, 10; New-Jersey, 14; North Carolina, 22; Ohio, 44; Pennsylvania, 32; Rhode Island, 8; South Carolina, 8; Tennessee, 24; Texas, 18; Vermont, 12; Virginia, 23; West Virginia, 11; Wisconsin, 20.

NAYS—Alabama, 1; Delaware, 6; Florida, 1; Indiana, 2; Iowa, 1; Kentucky, 2; Maryland, 1; Mississippi, 15; Missouri, 4; Nevada, 1; New-Jersey, 8; Oregon, 6; Pennsylvania, 31; South Carolina, 1; West Virginia, 4.

THE SCREWS TIGHTENED.

Before the question on adopting the resolutions was taken, Mr. McKee, of Tennessee said: I rise to a question of privilege. I insist upon being heard. It is a question of privilege. [Cries of "Sit down," "Shut up."]

The PRESIDENT—What is the gentleman's question of privilege?

Mr. MCKEE—When I was in the last Democratic Convention, in 1868, [Cries of "Sit down; that belongs to the past."] The question is this: I want to offer my protest against this centralization through the instrumentality of a Committee, by which free thought and free utterance in a Democratic assembly composed of representatives from all parts of the country—

Mr. FAULKNER, of New-York, (interposing.)—I arise to a point of order. It is not a question of privilege for a gentleman to enter a protest, under the form of debating a question that is closed.

The PRESIDENT.—The gentleman from Tennessee is out of order.

Mr. McKEE—I want to say another word on the question of privilege. [Loud cries of "No, no."]

The PRESIDENT.—The Secretary will call the roll.

The Secretary then called the roll of States, upon motion for the adoption of the report of the Committee on Resolutions, with the following result—yeas, 670; nays, 62.

THE VOTE OF PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES.

The roll call being concluded, the President directed the clerk to read the result of the vote, which was as follows:

Whole number of votes cast.....732
Necessary to a choice.....367
(Great applause.)
James A. Bayard, of Delaware.....15
Thomas A. Hendricks, of Indiana.....21
William S. Groesbeck, of Ohio.....2
Blank.....2

A motion to make the vote unanimous failed.

The result of the vote for Vice-President was as follows:

For Vice-President, whole number of votes.....732
For B. Gratz Brown.....712
For John W. Stevenson, of Kentucky.....5
Blank votes.....15

Mr. Chalmers, of Mississippi, moved that the nomination be made unanimous, which was agreed to without a dissenting voice.

ADJOURNMENT SINE DIE.

The Reading Clerk announced that there would be in the evening at 8 o'clock a grand ratification meeting at Monument-square, and then, on motion, the Convention, at 1½, adjourned sine die.

A DIFFICULT TASK.

Immediately after the adjournment of the Convention, the Committee appointed to notify Mr. Greeley and Mr. Brown of their nomination by the Convention held a meeting. Hon. J. R. Doolittle, Chairman, and L. P. Fenlon, Secretary, and appointed the following Subcommittee to prepare a letter to the nominees, to be submitted to the full Committee: Hon. F. M. Pixley, James S. Thayer, of New-York; Judge J. C. Abbott, of Massachusetts; James Chesnut, of South Carolina, John C. Burch, of Tennessee; A. M. Miller, of Illinois.

On motion of Judge Abbott, it was resolved that the Committee proceed in a body to New-York, and present the letter to Mr. Greeley. Should Mr. Brown be in New-York at the time, the Committee will also wait on him.

The Woman Suffragists Repulsed With Scorn.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 10.—Isabella Beecher Hooker, of Connecticut; Susan B. Anthony, of New-York, and Laura De Force Gordon, of California, who have been in attendance on the Convention, hoping to obtain from the Democratic Party a broader recognition of their right to vote than was given by the Republican Convention at Philadelphia, are very much disappointed by the utter rejection of their claims by the Baltimore Convention, and declare their intention of working for the Philadelphia platform and its nominees.

THE NATIONAL COMMITTEE.

Augustus Schell Chosen Chairman—Meeting of the Committee Last Night.

BALTIMORE, July 10.—At a meeting of the National Democratic Committee this afternoon, all the members being present except from the States of Delaware and Florida, Hon. Augustus Schell, of New-York, was elected permanent Chairman, and Hon. P. O. Prince, of Massachusetts, was re-elected permanent Secretary and Treasurer. The following gentlemen were elected members of the Executive Committee: Theodore F. Randolph, of New-Jersey; Cyrus H. McCormick, of Illinois; Wm. A. Moore, of Michigan; Isaac P. Faxton, of Kansas; Frederick O. Prince, of Massachusetts; John G. Thompson, of Ohio; James P. Barr, of Pennsylvania; Wm. H. Barnum, of Connecticut; Mathew W. Ransom, of North Carolina; Daniel W. L. Bate, of Tennessee.

The Chairman of the National Executive Committee was made a member of the committee ex officio.

The following gentlemen compose the resident Democratic Committee at Washington: Samuel J. Randall, of Pennsylvania; W. W. Corcoran, of Washington; Allen G. Thurman, of Ohio; James Brooks, of New-York; and Montgomery Blair, of Maryland.

IN THIS CITY.

Reception of the News—Tammany Responds to the Nomination of the Baltimore Convention.

About ten minutes after the news of Greeley and Brown's nomination at Baltimore reached the City, the guns of Tammany Hall belched out a hundred guns in the City Hall Park. "Tammany responds to the nomination of the Baltimore Convention" was painted upon a canvas banner planted near the scene of the firing. Flags were hoisted upon the City Hall by Tammany's orders, upon the Tribune buildings and by the newspapers notorious for a partial and total suppression of the Tammany frauds. The noise of the cannon attracted the crowds usually drawn to the Park upon the occasion of the firing of a salute, and among them were many loud-mouthed champions of the man once honored by the Republican Party, when he was believed to be swayed by principle, and not a selfish desire of his own personal advancement, as is now so palpable to every one.

There were many readers of the newspaper bulletins, and the comments made upon the news were serious.

"What do you think about it?" said one man to his friend.

"Well, I suppose I'll have to vote for him, as he is the nominee of my party; but all that I have to say about it, that there is nothing in his favor but his availability."

Another gentleman, a Democrat, read the announcement again and again, as though there might be something wrong about it, and then walked slowly away, shaking his head mournfully.

Said one gentleman to another, in front of the TIMES bulletin, "How can we, as honest men, support this man? Why, there is not a thief in the City but who is in favor of his election."

"A worse representative of the Democratic sentiment of the country could not have been selected," said the other. These sentiments were seemingly reciprocated by every Democrat of acknowledged standing and probity encountered during the day.

A rush was made by a promiscuous crowd, while the guns were firing, for the Tribune office. It was soon flooded by the rough and ready mechanics, who evidently anticipated the fun of a speech from Horace. They were not gratified, however, and they amused themselves by making fun at the Tammany candidate. "Here's Horace. Hello! Horace. How do you do?" some of them would say to attract the attention of the others. Then would then be a pushing and turning of heads, and finally a general guffaw at the joke. Several attempts were made to raise a cheer for the "Chappaquidick" philosopher in the office, but each time it was a failure. It was impossible to raise anything but a laugh, and there was a tired gaze upon the faces of everybody.

The gentlemen employed behind the counter looked upon these proceedings as though they were not relished, and to judge from the expression of their faces, seemed to think that their chief was in some way making himself ridiculous. A man with a shooting hat made a ramblingly sentimental address to the rabble in the Park, and was cheered. This was the only cheering heard during the Tammany explosion. The officials in the City Hall, however, were wild with delight. Several of them were seen dancing as extravagantly as can in the lobby. The employes in Mayor Hall's office were prepared, they said, to be fulsome towards Horace Greeley's election. The most enthusiastic greeter of the Tammany office-holders in the Sheriff's office, the County Clerk's and in the various Courts. These officials look on Greeley as their savior and have a mistaken idea that he is to be elected and they are to secure a new lease of office. Every Tammany man met on the street seemed wild with enthusiasm, praised Greeley as honest Temperance reformer, he would slumber at the amount of rum consumed by his Tammany friends, over the realization of their fondest wishes—a realization which their leaders had planned and worked for a year ago.

Broken, crushed and driven to hide themselves from the public gaze and popular punishment, the Tammany Ring assembled yesterday in a hopeful anticipation of a change of fortune, and their tribe of dependents were ready to shout hallelujahs to the man they have always despised, who has turned his back upon honest men.

Leaving the City Hall yesterday, and plunging into the slums of the City, wherever the news was heard, and it spread rapidly, Tammany was found to respond to the nomination of the Baltimore Convention through the sickening Tammany mouth-pieces of these localities, who, while they debauch the miserable people of their neighborhoods, at the same time use them to corrupt our City politics.

The rum-sellers of Mackerelville, the Five Points, Water-street, Cherry-street, the Fourth Ward Murderers' Row, Houston-street and Bleecker-street, with some remarkable exceptions, responded to the nomination of the Baltimore Convention. The inhabitants of Battle-Row also responded.

Every rattling bellyn the City responded, and old Tweed, Sweeny, Hall, Barlow, Genet, Bradley, Billy Cooke, Cozzens and the long list of Tammany plunderers whose names were made notorious in the TIMES. All of these men endorsed the nomination of the Baltimore Convention yesterday.

While the Tammany guns were thundering out their salute and the Tammany gang were "responding to the Baltimore nominations," and congratulating each other upon the choice of candidates, the Philosopher of many ideas was up town, surrounded by a small body of newsheads, waiting for the telegram announcing the ratification action of the Convention. He was at the Glenham Hotel head-quarters in the morning, and then retired to the Lincoln Club, where the news reached him. He smiled, and was pleased over it, and appeared to feel no regretful pangs at the thought that he was now the standard-bearer of that corrupt Tammany Ring, which he claimed should be exposed; but with whom it would now appear he has been secretly in friendship.

At Greeley head-quarters, yesterday, only two men were present when the news of the Baltimore nomination was received. These two were asleep, and the noise of the firing of cannon in City Hall Park brought their slumbers but for a moment. They rolled over lazily, and soon the sound of their snoring was the only interruption to the prevailing quiet.

THE NEUTRAL GROUND.

Sentiments of the Chicago Times on the Present Political Situation.

CHICAGO, July 10.—The Times of this morning, in a leader based on the assumption that the Baltimore Convention will today nominate Greeley and Brown, announces adherence to its views heretofore expressed in regard to Greeley, and says it cannot and will not espouse his cause or labor for his election. It says Greeley is now the candidate of the Democratic Party, so far as he can be made such, a fact which it regards as a hard one, but which cannot be ignored. It is also a fact that the choice of the people must be either for Greeley or Grant. The question as to how Democrats shall vote in this contingency, the Times says, is only to be decided by individual voters themselves, inasmuch as the action of the Baltimore Convention has not placed Democrats under the slightest obligation to vote for Greeley, one of the worst embodiments of radicalism the country has ever known. At the same time it is clearly the duty of every Democrat to give himself with renewed devotion to the work of rescuing local Governments and the legislative branch of the General Government from the grasp of Radicals.

The Article concludes as follows: "Holding these opinions touching the duty of Democrats, in view of the hard alternative now presented, the Times, while it cannot and will not give to Mr. Greeley any positive support, even as the lesser evil, while it washes its hands of all responsibility for his election, if he shall be elected, will support with redoubled zeal and vigor the reform candidates for Congress, State offices and for Congress—all whom it regards as fitted by their principles, abilities and characters to exert a wholesome conservative influence upon the next Administration, whether it be Grant or Greeley. More could not be accomplished under different auspices, but that not only strengthens the motive to do everything it is still possible to do to arrest bad and dangerous tendencies of the times, and cleanse the policy and measures of the Government."

LONG BRANCH.

How the News of the Nomination was Received—Feeling of the Democrats.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

LONG BRANCH, July 10.—The nomination of Mr. Greeley at Baltimore has failed to elicit any enthusiasm whatever, with one exception. Mr. Frank Leslie, of Boz's Doings notoriety, fired a salute of one hundred Chinese bombs, in honor of the event, in front of the Ocean Hotel, much to the annoyance of the dancers inside. He succeeded in nearly overturning several carriages and stages, but did not succeed in raising a single cheer. On the appearance of the police he hurriedly retired. A few Democrats are trying to look and feel easy, but their jollification is far too much like a funeral feast. They seem to feel that, in the words of Hamlet, "the funeral baked meats may coldly furnish forth the marriage table," and that they can not keep off political dyspepsia in November.

ILLINOIS.

Democrats Attempt to Enthusiasm Among the Democrats.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 10.—The Democrats had a ratification meeting this evening, indorsing the action of the Baltimore Convention. A salute was fired from a very small gun, and $10 worth of fire-works were burned. Judge Trumbull was the principal speaker at the meeting. His speech consisted of a tirade against Grant and the Civil Service Reform bill, and in laudations of Horace Greeley. A very noticeable feature of the meeting was the absence of those Republicans who had heretofore gone off after strange gods. The laborers in this State have almost entirely repudiated the attempted coalition. The meeting was a very small affair.

VIRGINIA.

Greeley Accepted at a Ratification Meeting—Outbreak with Which the Nomination of the Tammany Candidate is Received.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

RICHMOND, Va., July 10.—The news of the nomination of Greeley and Brown was received here today by the Greeleyites according to a matured programme. A piece of infant artillery was promptly carried to Capitol-square, where a number of rounds were fired, which were quite audible to all who were in the square, or who were not very far off. A mass meeting in front of Virginia Hall, tonight, was the book of the programme, but it was a most ridiculous failure, despite the music made by two dilapidated drums, the noise of the cannon and the burning of a scant supply of indifferent fire-works. The crowd that gathered was laughably small, and was chiefly composed of boys of both colors, and of curious persons on their way home who passed to see what the hubbub noise was about. At length after waiting for the multitude that didn't attend there were three separate distinct efforts to make a speech by as many persons with as many separate and distinct failures as to the result. I will mention the names of these orators, when I'll wager neither you nor your readers ever heard or notice them. They were Messrs. F. W. Mahood, W. W. Corby and A. G. Holliday. The whole thing was so lame, impotent and farcical that at an early hour it was announced by Mr. R. Ranson that this was a mere spontaneous running together of the people to manifest their abounding joy at the nomination of Greeley, and that the grand ratification meeting would take place Friday night. He concluded the memorable services by calling for nine cheers for Greeley and Brown, when, lo, there was a deep silence in response. This was broken by the uproar of the musical Department, who created "Hip, hip, hurrah!" two or three times, in which about a dozen shrill-voiced boys joined, and others then scornfully dispersed. This and other failures past and to come, are the consequence of building upon a popular enthusiasm for Greeley that has no real existence.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Preparations for the Campaign—Tricks of the Tribune—Naval Appropriations.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Political advices received here from Indiana within the past few days are very encouraging for the Republicans. There is a well-grounded belief among the best judges that the State will elect the Republican ticket in October next. This belief is only entertained because of the known facts in regard to the thorough organization of the canvass thus early in the campaign, and because of the vigilant and untiring efforts of the State Committee and its accessions in the counties, towns and districts. An organization by school districts throughout the State is now being perfected, by which concert in action can be secured nearly as perfect as in New-Hampshire. No rosesate views of the campaign prevail in Indiana. The Republican workers too well know that nothing but hard work will win the victory. The men of coolest judgment here, among whom are several members of the Administration, view the general situation somewhat as the Indiana Representatives view the situation in that State. They are confident of victory, but expect that it will be achieved only by hard work. What they look to especially for effective aid is local organization, initiated first in the State Committees and running down through to townships and school districts. They look to see this done with unusual energy in the States of New-York and Pennsylvania. They do not mean to be deceived or allow anybody to be deceived by false estimates of Republican strength any more than they mean to be bluffed by the extravagant game of brag which the Greeleyites are now playing. They expect to see hard work done, and know that only it will secure victory over a desperate and unscrupulous enemy.

SHARP PRACTICE BY THE REFORM PARTY.

Every now and then the Reform preachers are guilty of some contemptible trick which puts to shame all their professions. This time it is two liberal organs, the New-York Tribune and the St. Paul Dispatch. The Tribune prints Sumner's speech as a supplement, and sends it to its feeble country confreres for circulation in their editions, without paying postage. In this case the St. Paul Dispatch sought to change the Tribune supplement into a Dispatch supplement, by pasting two turned slices, and the words, "Supplement to the St. Paul Dispatch" over the Tribune title, having the rest of the sheet, Tribune, prospectus column, title lines and all! Just as printed at the Tribune office. A copy of the document having been forwarded to the First Assistant Postmaster-General, it is found to be in direct violation of section 143 of the postal Code, which subjects the entire edition to letter postage, and the proprietor who attempts to circulate it to $5 fine for each document so inclosed and sent through the mails. The Postmaster at St. Paul has been instructed accordingly.

A NAVAL CLAIM.

Yesterday, W. E. Leroy, Earl English and Robert G. F. Lewis, the officers of the Navy appointed by the Judge of the District Court to appraise the value of the rebel ram Albemarle, which was sunk in Wilmington harbor during the war, submitted their report that $322,856 00 is a just and equitable appraisement. The Court made an order that $302,912 be deposited with the Assistant-Treasurer, 79,954 having been previously deposited for distribution.

THE POSTAL CARDS.

Numerous inquiries have been received by the Post-office Department in relation as to when postal cards will be supplied to the public, and if they are now prepared ready for distribution. As the clerks would have all of their time occupied by answering letters of this kind, the general statement is authoritatively made that the postal cards will not be ready for distribution for at least one month yet. They will be furnished by contract, and advertisements for proposals will be issued by the Department next week.

SEIZURE OF CUBAN PRIVATEERS.

The Secretary of the Treasury expects a full report by mail of all the circumstances attending the seizure of the alleged Cuban privateer Pioneer by the revenue-cutter Mucussin. No additional particulars have reached the Department today.

BY MAIL AND TELEGRAPH.

Lieut. J. F. Meigs has been detached from torpedo duty at League Island.

The New-York State Temperance Society is called to meet at Saratoga Springs on July 23.

The weather throughout England yesterday was fair, and favorable to the growing crops.

Lieut. R. D. Hitchcock has been detached from Newport on Aug. 1, and ordered to duty at the Hydrographic Office.

Continued and heavy rains, which have been very damaging to the crops, are reported in South Carolina.

Cotton caterpillars have appeared in many counties of Alabama, and cause much depression among the planters.

Pay-master C. P. Thompson has been detached from the Plymouth, and ordered to duty in the Bureau of Provisions and Clothing.

First Assistant Engineer E. A. Magee has been detached from the Canonicus, and ordered to special duty at the Treasury Department.

A company of wealthy Bostonians have purchased the furnaces, plant and lease of the iron-mines at Clementsport, N. S., and will commence work at once.

John H. Warland, for many years editor of the Lowell Courier, and widely known as a vigorous political writer, died in the Asylum on Sunday last, aged sixty-five.

The boat race at Digby, N. S., between Fulton and Browne, has been postponed for smooth water. Great crowds were present to witness the race. The accommodations are poor.

Last evening a severe storm, accompanied by thunder and lightning, passed over Philadelphia, Penn. Several culverts caved in. Trees were uprooted and telegraph-wires torn down.

David Smith, the youngest son of Joseph Smith, the Mormon prophet, lectured at Salt Lake City last night against polygamy. His pleasant excited the present Church authorities but a little.

The report that the time for the Saratoga races has been changed is not true. The races will begin on Saturday, the 24th, and continue every day, Sunday excepted, for six days. Longfellow and Bassett are both there.

A grand banquet was given Tuesday evening at Peterboro', Ontario, to Sir John A. Macdonald, the Premier of the Dominion. About 1,500 persons were present, including a large number of ladies. The town was handsomely decorated and brilliantly illuminated.

Tuesday afternoon Judge Steele addressed the Phi Beta Kappa Society of the University of Vermont, at Burlington, and the Junior exhibition occurred in the evening. Yesterday was the Commencement Day. Twenty-five have already applied for admission next year, of whom five are girls.

A Committee of the Board of Trade and of the Workmen's Benevolent Association met yesterday at Pottsville, Penn., to average the prices of coal from the June returns, and found the same to be $1 26. In accordance with the agreement made in January, 1869, the wages for July will be paid on the basis then established.

Gen. St. John R. L. Skinner died yesterday morning, at Wilmington, of paralysis, aged seventy-five years. Gen. Skinner was a native of Washington County, New-York. He served in the war of 1812, and during the administration of President Pierce was made First Assistant Postmaster-General—a position which he retained under Presidents Buchanan, Lincoln and Johnson.

Jubilee Finances—A Surplus of $150,000.

From the Boston Post, July 8.

The balancing of accounts by the Jubilee Committee reveals the unwelcome fact that there is a deficit of nearly, which will have to be made up from the guarantee fund, unless some method of swelling the receipts is hit upon. The building and fixtures still remain, but even these will hardly make up the loss. Mr. Gilmore, who has worked night and day for many months in bringing his great conception into shape, finds no return for his extraordinary labors, and the proceeds of his benefit were generously donated by him to the association. The Executive Committee would doubtless find, if they chose to experiment, that the sentiment of the business community of Boston is heartily favorable to any scheme which can be devised for making up the loss which Mr. Gilmore sustained in his enterprise, and the public-spirited citizens of Boston only await their suggestion to do their part toward making Mr. Gilmore a benefactor, as he certainly deserves to be.

The American System of Representation in England.

Efforts to Secure it for the House of Commons.

Two Men Killed in Pope County, Arkansas.

Release of Dr. Houard by the Spanish Government.

Conclusion of the Commencement Exercises at Bowdoin.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Attempt to Introduce the American Elective System into England.

LONDON, July 10.—In the House of Commons today Mr. Morrison moved the second reading of the Proportional Representation bill, which adopts the American system of representation proportioned to population, readjusted according to each successive census.

Mr. Morrison explained the operation of the bill at great length. He demonstrated that under this system Birmingham would be entitled to seven and Liverpool to eleven representatives in Parliament, instead of three each as at present, and that London would be represented by sixty-two members instead of twenty as now.

Tom Hughes seconded the motion of Mr. Morrison.

Sir Charles Dilke opposed the motion, on the ground that Ireland and Scotland were not included in the operation of the bill.

Right Hon. Sir Alexander Cockburn, arbitrator on the part of England on the Geneva Tribunal, is to be created an Earl in recognition of his eminent services as Lord Chief Justice of England and in connection with the arbitration. Lord Tenterden and Sir Roundell Palmer, agent and counsel for Great Britain before the Tribunal of Arbitration, will leave to-morrow for Geneva, whither Sir Alexander Cockburn went on Monday.

ARKANSAS.

The Troubles in the State—Two More Men Killed.

LITTLE ROCK, June 10.—Parties from Pope County this evening report that the militia to the number of sixty were near Dover last night. It is reported they intended to make an attack on that place today; also that two more citizens were killed last night at Dover. The Governor will send Major-General Upham, of the militia, to the scene of the trouble to-morrow to investigate the matter.

Two counsellors were in Judge Chief-Justice McClure this evening on a writ of habeas corpus, and the bail of each was fixed at $10,000. The party was remanded to prison in default of bail.

SPAIN.

Dr. Houard Released by the Spanish Authorities.

MADRID, July 10.—Houard is free. An order from Madrid offered his release as an act of pardon, to which Mr. Houard demurred, as his acceptance of it might appear as acknowledgement of guilt and a waiver of his right to compensation. He was then turned or forced out. He called yesterday on a Cadiz correspondent immediately after his release.

BOWDOIN COLLEGE.

Inauguration of New Scholarships—A Military Drill to be Introduced.

BRUNSWICK, Me., July 10.—At a meeting of the Boards of Trustees and Overseers of Bowdoin College today the following new scholarships were accepted: One thousand dollars from Rev. W. T. Savage, of Franklin, N. H.; $300 from Miss Mary Cleves, of Hallowell; $1,000 from Marshall Cram, of Brunswick, the scholarship to be called the "Cram Memorial Scholarship," in honor of his son, the late N. H. F. Cram, of the Class of '61; also, $1,000 from Mrs. Maria M. Sewall, of Kennebunk.

It was voted to repair Massachusetts Hall and fit up the upper rooms for a museum of science, to be called the "Cleveland Museum of Natural Science." The Department of Military Tactics was put on a footing with other departments,

THE FISK MURDER.

The Evidence for the Defense Concluded.

The Probing Question Again—Rebuttal Testimony—Was Fisk Armed?—The Trial Drawing to a Close.

The heat did not prevent there being the usual curious crowd of spectators in the Court-room and outside in the lobbies of the new Court-house, yesterday, during the proceedings in the trial of Stokes. The mother and sister of the prisoner sat beside him, but with their backs turned to the auditors, many of whom endeavored in vain to see their faces. When the mother of Stokes took the stand there was an expectant silence, but her testimony merely showed that after the Greenpoint oil refinery trouble with Fisk her son carried a pistol always, being, as he said, in fear of his life.

A great part of the day was devoted to trying to find out whether or not Dr. Fisher or Tripler probed for the bullet too deeply, and if they used the proper instruments. The defense closed and the prosecution began its rebuttal by proving, in spite of the objections of the other side, that, on the evidence of a Belgian, Fisk's interpreter, the murdered man was not armed on the day he was shot.

Dr. Thomas H. Tripler was recalled, and testified in answer to Mr. Tremaine:

Q.—Is Taylor on Poisons a recognized authority among medical men? A.—I am not familiar with it; I never read it.

Q.—Do you know anything about George Harley's Old Vegetable Neurotics? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—What is the length of the probe you used on Mr. Fisk? A.—Six inches.

Q.—Did you know a man named Marshall Cowing? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—Did you have a conversation with him within three or four days after the death of Fisk? A.—Yes, Sir; he met me at my office, or at the dinner-table at the Grand Central Hotel.

Q.—Didn't you tell him that your probe was not a proper one, and if you had had the right kind you would have found the ball? A.—I don't recollect that.

Q.—Didn't you tell him that you probed the wound before Dr. Fisher came? A.—Very likely I did.

DR. FISHER RECALLED.

Dr. Fisher was then recalled, and testified in answer to Mr. Tremaine:

Q.—I take it for granted that you recognize Taylor on Poisons as an authority? A.—It is, Sir; it is considered a good work on poisons.

Q.—Is it not a standard work on poisons? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—Do you know Marshall Cowing? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—Did you have a conversation with him after the death of Fisk? A.—I believe so.

Q.—Didn't you tell him that you put the probe in four inches and touched the ball, and pushed it five inches? A.—Never.

Q.—Didn't you tell him that you pushed the ball at all? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Did you tell Mr. Cowing that Dr. Tripler had pushed away at Fisk half an hour before you arrived? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Didn't you have any conversation with him on that subject? A.—I don't recollect it.

Cross-examined by Mr. Beach.—Q.—If any injury had been inflicted by the probing, how would it have been manifested? A.—By inflammation; by peritonitis at that point.

Q.—Was any such thing discovered? A.—No, Sir.

Marshall Cowing was called, but did not respond.

THE MOTHER OF THE PRISONER TESTIFYING.

Mrs. Stokes was sworn, and testified, in answer to Mr. Tremaine:

Q.—You are the mother of the prisoner? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—You have lived here how long? A.—Ten years.

Q.—Came here from Philadelphia? Yes, Sir.

Q.—Do you recollect when your son was put in prison? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—Did you call upon him there? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Do you remember his receiving notes from your family a year ago? A.—Last year, in June, he was there two or three weeks.

Q.—Did you then discover he had a pistol? A.—I did; he showed it to me first in one day, and I saw it daily on his bed after that.

Q.—Did you discover anything peculiar in his conversation? A.—I did on two or three occasions—when he was talking with his father about his imprisonment—he became excited; his eyes had a wild appearance that I had never seen before.

TESTIMONY OF HORACE STOKES.

Horace Stokes was sworn, and testified in answer to Mr. Tremaine: Q.—I am a brother of the prisoner; I am one of the firm of Stokes & Co.

Q.—Do you recollect when the prisoner was illfor your father's house in June a year ago? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—Did he send you for his pistol? A.—Yes, Sir; he sent me to the Hoffman House for it; I got it from the clerk and brought it to him.

Q.—Did you notice anything strange in his manner? A.—Yes, Sir; very nervous.

Q.—What did he say as to his apprehensions at that time? Objected. Question allowed. Exception. A.—He told me he couldn't pass a night without the pistol for the same time.

Q.—What fear did he express? A.—He said he carried the pistol, being in fear of an attack.

Cross-examined by Mr. Beach.—Q.—What was the nature of his complaint at that time? A.—I think it was a nervous complaint; he slept in the skin. When he sent me for the pistol, I asked him why he carried it, and he said he always carried one since his troubles with Fisk; that he was afraid of an attack from Fisk or some of his men.

Mr. McKeon then read the testimony of Patrick Clarke, taken before the Coroner.

TESTIMONY OF DR. B. HOWE.

Dr. Benjamin Howe was called, and testified in answer to Mr. Tremaine:

Q.—What is your profession? A.—I am a medical practitioner; I reside in New-York, and have done so for upwards of fifteen years; I am a member of the Medical and Chirurgical Society of London; I was appointed such in 1865; it is the leading medical society of the United Kingdom; they publish regularly a pamphlet of their transactions.

Q.—Are you acquainted with Taylor on Poisons? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—Is that a high medical authority? A.—There is no work on poisons, to my knowledge.

Q.—Do you know of George Harley's Old Vegetable Neurotics? A.—I have heard of it as an authority.

TESTIMONY OF MARSHALL COWING.

Marshall Cowing was then sworn, and testified in answer to Mr. Tremaine: Q.—What is your business? A.—I am manufacturer of metallic pumps and other hydraulic machinery.

Q.—Where have you been living? A.—I have boarded at the Fifth-avenue Hotel, the Grand Central, and other places; I am now keeping house in Brooklyn; I have boarded at the Grand Central from the time it opened, last August, up to now, with the exception of a few months, until quite recently.

Q.—Do you know Drs. Fisher and Tripler? A.—I do.

Q.—How long have you known Dr. Fisher? A.—Upward of a year.

Q.—Were you intimate with him? A.—We were quite intimate; we sat at the table a great deal together.

Q.—How long have you known Dr. Tripler? A.—Since last November or December; he boarded at the house I was well acquainted with him.

Q.—Was you with Dr. Fisher the time Fisk was shot? A.—I was then coming at the hotel; I came in visiting at most afterward.

Q.—After his death, do you recollect the conversation which you had with Dr. Fisher? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—Did you have a conversation with him in regard to his probing? A.—Yes, Sir; I was reminding the Doctor of a conversation we had Mr. Fisk might have been killed by reason of his probing; I told Dr. Tripler that he probed too far; he said he had not; that he pushed away at Fisk half an hour before he came; I told Tripler it was very unfortunate for Dr. Fisher to have anything of that sort; that it should make a bad case; I said it would look bad; I was talking to just about; he said: "I pushed away at him for some time, as Dr. Fisher did; he probed entirely until for the purpose of ascertaining the ball; probed as far as persons I other cases; I probed to find the ball; probed as proper as I ever did; that Fisher was unwise in saying such a thing as that for Fisher probed Fisk, and if I were to tell what I know about him I could sink him—he made some other remarks; I had a conversation with Fisher after he attended Fisk, and he said he struck the bullet at four inches and shoved it per and a half or five inches; I asked him why he put and a half; he said: "I probed to find the ball of the right size; I asked him why he did not get the right probe, and he said he didn't have time—the case needed immediate attention; he told me this moment three, and I think he told James Hand, coal dealer, the same thing.

Cross-examined by Mr. Beach.

Q.—Did you ever make any memorandum of any of these conversations you have spoken of? A.—No, Sir; I keep a business diary, but didn't put these things in; I didn't think they were of sufficient consequence, no more than that they were of a serious character.

Q.—I think you said that were jocose in their character? A.—In starting the conversation with Dr. Fisher, I did; I asked him in order to find out what the real state of things was—that was the first conversation with Fisher; it was jocose.

Q.—Do you recollect any other conversation you had with Dr. Fisher before you talked with Tripler? A.—I don't say you or no to that. Because I think I did, but I don't recollect.

Q.—Can you do anything more than to give the substance of one of these conversations? A.—I can't give any particular one; the conversations were all the same; they were jocose.

Q.—Did conversations, then, give the substance of all? A.—Yes.

Q.—Give the substance of the interview with Tripler? A.—I told Mr. Tripler that Dr. Fisher requested me to say he was glad he had punished away at Fisk for half an hour before he got there, before he saw him; Dr. Tripler replied that he didn't know why Fisher should complain; it was entirely unnecessary; he had probed; he had probed, he said, "and I'll swear I'll tell what I know about probing; I probed; he would not dare to show his head in this hotel; and why he should talk that about me I don't know; I probed; I probed to the extent of my knowledge; I probed; he said, "I probed to the extent of my knowledge; I probed; he said, "I probed to the extent of my knowledge; I probed; he said, "

FLOATING DEBT.

Including loans on demand, bills payable, outstanding vouchers and pay-rolls, and accrued interest on funded debt	$8,423,658 20

The earnings and expenses of the Erie Railway Company for the first six months of the calendar year, 1872, were as follows:

	Earnings.	Expenses.
January	$1,361,004 55	$1,206,139
February	1,304,076 27	1,356,628 39
March	1,468,178 69	1,339,732 61
April	1,568,812 69	1,505,083 80
May	1,776,211 40	1,436,000 00
June	1,449,942 00	1,400,000 00
Total	$8,928,221 00	$8,451,948 80
Net earnings		$557,954 10
Less 8½ ₱ cent. on preferred stock, payable July 15, 1872		$285,791 66
Surplus		$272,062 25

We remark on the first table of Stock and Debt, that the numerous leases, if capitalized at 7 ₱ cent., would amount to about $16,000,000—rental $1,120,000 per annum. This sum, to embrace in one view the whole Capital and Funded and Capitalized Debt, should be added to the total of $116,577,050, and upon the aggregate of $132,577,050, less the Common Stock of $78,000,000—say $54,577,050, the Expenses in the second table, including Interest and Lease charges, (and at the foot, the Preferred Dividend,) are calculated. Against the floating Debt of $8,423,658, the Company own Miscellaneous Securities to about a corresponding amount, consisting mainly of the Bonds and Stocks of the leased properties. To the extent that these fail to pay interest, the Company must necessarily make up the sum needful to carry the Floating Debt. And this also appears in Expenses.

We remark in the second place that the tables of Expenses for the last three months, since the ousting of Gould, while showing the only profit, above Expenses, Interest, &c., made in the six months, would appear greatly more favorable but for the legacy of arrearages, in various shapes, left to the Reformed Administration. This drawback will probably soon cease altogether. The

Mr. Phelps, the Sixth-avenue jeweler, who was shot by a sneak-thief some time since, under circumstances which are still fresh in the public mind, yesterday appeared in Jefferson Market Police-court. He looked very pale and thin, and was barely able to move about. His presence was occasioned by the arrangement of John Thompson, the confederate of Porter, and who is supposed to have fired the shot, who was arraigned for trial. Mr. Phelps, the friend of Mr. Phelps, positively identified Thompson as being one of the men who passed by him in running down the stairs of Mr. Phelps' residence on the occasion of the shooting. In view of this positive identification, Justice Ledwith refused to accept bail and committed Thompson for trial. Porter, the prisoner, was sent immediately to the Grand Jury, as Mr. Phelps is anxious to leave the City for a while to recruit his health.

The Riverside Park.

The presentation for confirmation by the Court of the report of the Commissioners of the Riverside Park, has been adjourned until the 23d inst., at the request of the Corporation Counsel. It was stated that the report was still partially incomplete, the Commissioners requiring further time to revise some of the assessments and awards.

Imprisoned on a False Judgment.

A motion was made, yesterday, before Judge Freedman in the Superior Court to vacate a judgment and order of arrest against one John Brown for $8,000. It appeared that Brown was arrested and sent to Ludlow-street Jail under a judgment for $8,000. It now turns out on a reference that the judgment was entered without any proper service of summons or complaint. Judge Freedman set aside all the proceedings, and ordered the discharge of the defendant.

Details of a Mormon's Second Marriage.

From the Salt Lake Mining Journal, July 3.

A coachman of a leading member of the Mormon Church, took unto himself a second wife some two or three weeks since. Wife No. 1 on hearing the anticipated marriage of her liege lord, proceeded to the home of the intended second wife and implored her not to become his wife, as he was unable to support wife No. 1 and children. The young lady paid no attention to the importunities of the first wife, but on the following day was married; and when it became known to the other, who was in delicate health, she immediately swooned away and fell on the stove and was severely burned. It is said that the lady is now partially deranged.

OFFICE OF THE BOARD OF ENGINEERS OF THE FOURTH-AVENUE IMPROVEMENT, GRAND CENTRAL DEPOT,
NEW-YORK, July 3, 1872.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Sealed proposals will be received by the undersigned at this office for constructing the stairs, approaches, gates, walls, and iron railings, between 42d and 50th streets, according to the provisions of the Act to "improve and regulate the use of the Fourth-avenue in the City of New-York," passed May 14, 1872.

Plans, specifications and blank proposals will be in readiness at this office on the 10th day of July.

Proposals will be received until 1 o'clock P. M. of the 25th day of July.

Contractors, at their option, can propose for the masonry and approaches, and for the superstructure of the bridges, and other iron-work, separately, or for the entire work.

The Board reserve the right in their discretion to accept the bids for the whole or any part of the work.

The right is expressly reserved by the Board of Engineers to reject any and all bids, which they may deem prejudicial to the interests represented by them.

Proposals to be addressed to the "Board of Engineers of the Fourth-avenue Improvement," at this office.

PROPOSALS FOR SUPPLIES.

PURCHASING AND DISBURSING PAY-MASTER'S OFFICE, UNITED STATES NAVY, No. 29 BROADWAY, NEW-YORK, July 10, 1872.

Proposals, sealed and indorsed "Bids for Supplies Advertised," will be received at this office until 1 o'clock, the 18th inst., for the following supplies of the best quality, to be delivered, free of expense, at the place named:

BUREAU PROVISIONS AND CLOTHING.

25,000 lbs. Candles, naval standard.

Bidders are referred to the officer in charge at the Navy-yard, for samples and further information, and will state in their proposals the date within which they will complete deliveries if awarded to them, which must not exceed ten days from date of order.

The right is reserved to reject any bid or bids that may not be deemed advantageous to the Government, and to award each article or item separate, as may be most to its interest.

Responsible security required for the prompt and faithful delivery of supplies under contract within the time specified.

Blank forms will be furnished at this office, and bids opened at the hour above named, when parties interested are invited to be present.

J. O. BRADFORD,
Pay Director United States Navy.

SEALED PROPOSALS WILL BE RECEIVED until the 23d day of July, 1872, at the office of the Supervising Architect, Treasury Department, Washington, D. C., for furnishing and delivering Marble, Granite, Limestone, or other hard, durable stone, broken to the size of hens' eggs, suitable for concrete. The proposals to be accompanied by a sample of the stone.

Proposals will be made by the cubic yard, and will be received by weight; the weight of a yard to be ascertained by the superintendent, by measuring accurately and weighing the same.

Proposals will be made on the printed form, to be obtained of the Supervising Architect, at Washington, or the Collector of Customs, Chicago, Ill.; and will be accompanied by a penal bond in the sum of $5,000 that the bidder will accept and perform the contract, if awarded him.

All of the concrete stone needed will require to be delivered within forty days after the contract is entered into.

The right to reject any or all the bids is reserved.

Proposals must be inclosed in a sealed envelope and indorsed "Proposals for Concrete Stone, New Government Buildings, Chicago, Ill.," and addressed to Notice.

We cannot notice anonymous communications. In all cases we require the writer's name and address, not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

We cannot under any circumstances return rejected communications, nor can we undertake to preserve manuscripts.

To Advertisers.

☞ For the accommodation of up-town residents, advertisements for insertion in the TIMES will be received at No. 54 West 23d-st., junction of Broadway and 6th-av.; No. 308 West 23d-st., opposite Grand Opera-house, and No. 1,241 Broadway, between 30th and 31st sts., at same rates as are charged at office of publication.

☞ The NEW-YORK TIMES has opened a branch office in Brooklyn at No. 111 Fulton-st., junction of Fulton and Main, where advertisements will be received until 5 P. M.

☞ Throughout the Presidential canvass, we shall publish fuller reports of meetings and conventions in each State than any other New-York journal. Very full dispatches will be forwarded by telegraph, supplemented by careful letters. Our desire is to place before the public the latest and most trustworthy information, and we have made ample arrangements for that purpose.

According to the Tammany papers every State that sustains the Republican cause from this time to November, will be bought. This handy falsehood has already made its appearance with reference to North Carolina in the Tribune and the World, and will be repeated for each State as the successive elections approach. It will, however, deceive no one. The only persons likely to betray much feeling about it will be the "Liberal Republicans," and Democrats, on whom is cast the imputation of venality. If the majority of the people are for the Democrats, and all who are for Democracy are honest, why is there such feverish apprehension of their being bought up like so many cattle? Have the Tammany organs learned what an ill name awaits the bird that fouls its own nest?

On Saturday the Cincinnati Commercial made this statement concerning the Baltimore Convention:

"It will have done its work when it recommends the principles of the Cincinnati Convention, and the men who have been named as their exponents, and adjourns without making nominations. To go further will be interpreted as an attempt to Democratize the Liberal Republican movement, and drive from the support of the Ticket a multitude of voters who will vote for Grant and Brown only upon the assurance that they represent the best phase of progressive Republicanism, and not the doubtful advancement of a conservatism that moves only under the prick and goad of accomplished rascals and hard political taskmasters."

The Convention went further, and has unquestionably "driven from the support of the ticket" many of the sincere men above referred to. Will the Commercial follow, or will it stand by the nomination to which "Tammany responds?"

When SEYMOUR was nominated in Tammany Hall four years ago, the room rang with a genuine rebel "yell." Before Mr. GREELEY was nominated, in Baltimore yesterday, the bands played "My Maryland," "Dixie," and the "Bonnie Blue Flag." These tunes now are played as part of the "Reform" campaign. The mask would seem to have fallen off, if the people were bad enough to put the Democratic candidate in their head.

"Tammany responds to the Baltimore nomination," was the announcement chilingly placarded by the Ring in the City Hall Park yesterday afternoon. No one doubts it, and the people will have a rejoinder to make to Tammany's response in November next which the Ring will not care to publish in the Park, and over which they will not fire a single salute.

Will the World inform the public whether the Democracy now has "a book in the nose" of Mr. GREELEY?

The Democracy and Its Candidate.

Under the operation of what Senator BAYARD called the "gag rule," Mr. GREELEY was yesterday made the Democratic candidate for the Presidency. Since the issues of the campaign are thus presented more clearly to the country, the result is not to be regretted. A Democratic candidate, presented by a Democratic Convention, and relying on Democrats for nine-tenths of the votes he expects to get, is something Republicans at least can understand. No one can now vote for Mr. GREELEY under the delusion that Republican principles are in this way to be advanced. So far as Mr. GREELEY professes principles in common with Republicans, they are much more distinctly and thoroughly represented by the proper Republican candidate. So far as he undertakes to make any issue with the Republican Party, he is essentially a Democrat. He cannot expect the support of any considerable number of his fellow-citizens who do not approve the purposes and sympathize with the spirit of the Democratic Party.

Those who view the Democracy with deep and well-founded distrust cannot confide in a Democratic candidate, however lately he may have doffed the uniform of Republicanism. There is not a single Democratic tendency of all those that have alarmed the country for twelve years past, to which Mr. GREELEY, in his present attitude, opposes the slightest resistance. There is not a single element of Democracy, of all those that have controlled its course since 1860, to the intense disgust of the patriotic and honest portion of our people, against which Mr. GREELEY, in his present position, dares to offer the faintest objection. He stands before the country, his lips sealed to any utterance of warning concerning the grave and numerous evils, he has justly taught the country for years past to expect from the supremacy of the Democratic Party. To the most obvious and important facts in our public affairs—facts he has himself constantly pointed out as those which ought to make every sincere lover of his country a supporter of the Republican Party—he is suddenly blind. He cannot see the renewal of violent persecution hanging over the heads of the newly-made citizens of the South; he cannot see the revival of dissension and disorder threatened by powerful portions of Southern society; he cannot see the wide-spread corruption, the greed of office, the low aims and degrading passions uniting the Democracy in this last desperate rally to regain a supremacy of which they have so long been deprived by the calm and resolute judgment of the best and largest portion of the American people. But Mr. GREELEY cannot expect the people themselves to be blinded by the causes that have combined to place the scales upon his own eyes. He has been an influential teacher of political truth in the past, but it was the truth, not the teacher, the people followed; and they will adhere to the cause he has betrayed, not to the man who has betrayed it.

Nor can Mr. GREELEY obtain the support of all the party whose candidate he now is. Not all who believe in Democracy believe in him. The better class of Democrats—and we appeal to the personal knowledge of every reader who is acquainted with any members of this class for the correctness of our assertion—repudiate him. They desire the supremacy of Democratic ideas, through error, as we conceive, but sincerely; and they are not ready to trust those ideas to a man whom they regard with suspicion and contempt. They see in him, not the representative of genuine Democracy, but the tool of the men who have brought Democracy to disgrace. They have heretofore had candidates who justified their confidence by sincerity of conviction, honesty of purpose, and consistency of personal character. They are not prepared to give their votes to a candidate who possesses none of these attributes, and whose glaring infidelity to his own party forbids them to expect any loyalty to their own. To decent Democrats, Mr. GREELEY's nomination is much more than a ludicrous travesty on legitimate party action. It is a humiliating betrayal of their party into the hands of its most disreputable and most dangerous men.

And certainly if Mr. GREELEY has no claims on genuine Republicans or genuine Democrats, he has none on independent voters, who, with slight respect for any party ties, are accustomed to give their support to the candidate they believe, on the whole, the safest and best, and who are generally found on the side that promises the most practical and wholesome reforms. Mr. GREELEY has made professions of reform but stepping-stones for an incordinate ambition. Our readers will remember that, in the heat of the severe struggle against corruption in this State and City, he stood aloof, contemptuously belittling it, and interposing insinuating pleas for the Tammany leaders. It was only when the people had gained their victory that he recognized its immense importance, and immediately set to work to pervert it to his own purposes. His present attitude as leader of a "Reform campaign," of which, if successful, the Tammany Ring are to have the spoils and he the honors, is a legitimate development from his course all through the bitter fight made for real reform these last two years. He is now the Democratic candidate, and every sensible man will see that he is also the Tammany candidate. In this he must stand or fall. As much the result of the country must decide whether to aid him or defeat him.

For ourselves, we have no doubt of the result. The good sense, honesty, and patriotism of the people are against Mr. GREELEY. We have only to urge the Republican leaders to see that these elements of strength are fairly enlisted, that the merits of the case are distinctly brought home to every voter, and that all who ought to advance their honest convictions by their votes are aroused to do so. And as Mr. GREELEY has declared beforehand that his success depends on carrying this State, and has, after the manner of TWEED, already announced the majority he expects, it is in this State that victory for the cause of honesty and good government should be most earnestly and wisely labored for.

The Unjust Judges.

It has been among the sharp "dodges" of the Fenton-Greeley faction to take up the cry of "Reform," and turn it to their own dishonest purposes. They opposed Reform when we were trying to accomplish it. Even now they are in league with that very Tammany gang which we have labored for years past to destroy. Yesterday, a great flag was suspended in the City Hall Park, with this inscription upon it: "Tammany responds to the nomination of the Baltimore Convention." By orders of the "Sachems," a hundred guns were also fired as a Tammany salute to GREELEY. In the Tribune there appeared a defense of Sheriff BRENNAN, who is daily defrauding the City, as we have conclusively proved; and a boast that the "Blossom Club" (TWEED's) anxiously awaited the nomination of GREELEY. Here are evidences enough for one day that the Greeley men are identical with the Tammany gang—that they are working hand in hand;—and, no doubt, it is considered by the combined forces an exceedingly "smart" thing to take the Reform weapon out of the hands of Reformers and turn it against them.

But, although such a trick may succeed for a short time, the people will eventually detect and despise it—especially when it is bolstered up by manifest deception and misrepresentation. The people will never believe that FENTON, a worthy associate of TWEED—a man in every respect of like character to TWEED's—is likely to care a "straw" about Reform. And the attempts of Mr. GREELEY's own organ (which we ought to remember is "not an organ") to assist the Democratic candidate by false assertions will equally fall to the ground. Of late, the Tribune has taken great delight in asserting that to it is owing the purification of the Bench now going on. It has even gone further than this, and boldly asserted that the TIMES "has given no helping hand in the fight."

Such statements as these prove that GREELEY does not even know what truth means. It must surely be in the recollection of most of our readers and contemporaries, and of all members of the Bar, that we have worked unceasingly for years past to bring the unjust Judges to punishment. This is matter of record, easy to be proved from our files, and not to be changed by absurd falsehoods. We appeal to every honest member of the Bar in this City to state from which source he has derived most assistance and encouragement—from us or from the Tribune? The Tribune has over and over again praised BARNARD. It had not a word to say about CARDOZO's "Star Chamber," which we exposed and caused to be closed a year or two ago. In fact, it has worked with that notorious and infamous libeler, DANA of the Sun, to shield BARNARD, and to discourage all attempts at Reform. Out of its own mouth can it be condemned. Listen to its boasts of yesterday:

"The TIMES gave no helping hand in that fight until its success was assured. The Tribune published its charges of malfeasance against these Judges as early as Nov. 15, 1871. The TIMES had not a word to say in support until Feb. 6, 1872, the very day that the Judiciary Committee of the Assembly began proceedings against BARNARD and CARDOZO."

The foolish man who wrote this is so ignorant of the circumstances attending the long battle against the unjust Judges, that he actually imagines the struggle began in November, 1871. Why, for years previously to that we had so perseveringly attacked BARNARD, CARDOZO, and MCCUNN, that we had incurred their bitterest resentment. They told us they would drive us out of the City; that they would seize our property; that they would throw us into prison—nor were these by any means idle threats, considering the unlimited power they exercised. On March 12, 1868, we exposed one of BARNARD's extraordinary decisions. On Nov. 23, 1868, BARNARD replied with a lame defense to fresh charges against him. On Nov. 25, 1868, he delivered a long tirade against us from the Bench, and threatened a presentment for libel against us; and we challenged him to make it. He again abused us from the Bench on Dec. 8, 1868. From that time to the present, we have never let him and his confederates alone. We were the first to urge the Bar to rise in opposition to the corrupt Bench, and we were among the earliest to suggest the formation of the Bar Association.

Are not these facts remembered by the public? Yet the Tribune has the immeasurable impudence to assert that it has brought the Judges to punishment, while the TIMES remained silent! The foregoing facts speak for themselves, but there are still others which we may be pardoned for recalling. We have been threatened over and over again with BARNARD's arbitrary injunctions and arrests. When the late Mr. RAYMOND died, his reputation was assailed with vile and filthy abuse by BARNARD from the Bench. After that, BARNARD singled out another gentleman connected with this paper, and accused him of an offense which only a ruffian like BARNARD himself could commit. BARNARD's ally, C. A. DANA, has since followed in the same track, so far as he dared; and when BARNARD is disposed of, it may be possible to bring him to justice for doing so. At any rate, we promise him that no attempt shall be made to compass that end, and it will then be seen whether the law, JAMES A. HAYES, Office and any protection to private character against the most wanton, wicked and blasterly libelers. Already DANA is a fugitive from the law in Pennsylvania and New-Jersey—there will yet be a third State in which he will not dare to show his dishonest face. In short—not to dwell upon these points—there has not been a time, for years past, when we have not exposed and denounced the unjust Judges and all their confederates; and now the paper which has helped to shield them claims the credit for overthrowing them. It tried the same game after the downfall of the Tammany Ring, but the public shamed it into silence. We ask for no credit in the matter—but everybody will admit that it is hard to stand silent and be told that we have taken no part in a fight which we began and carried on almost single-handed, and in which we have been subjected to all kinds of vile assaults from "journalists" who disgrace their miserable calling.

Let all that be as it may—we undertake to go on with the fight until the job is finished. Then, having got rid of the corrupt Judges, there will be found means of bringing their open and secret allies to the punishment they so well deserve.

The Passing Reminiscence.

The goddess Fashion is rising once more from amid the smoke and débris of Paris, like Aphrodite from the foam of the sea. It is true that the flight of her High Priestess, EUGENIE, left darkness for a time about her chosen altar; but new stars have gathered thither, so that the gloom is dispelled, and the fragrant incense is curling upward as of yore. Paris, which, like her old race of Kings, seems to learn nothing and to forget nothing, is again joyous over the triumph of modistes, and spiked helmets are infinitely less thought of there than new bonnets. WORTH—not that which makes the man, but the woman—is largely credited with this revival, his superb conceptions in the way of costume being quite the rage in the capital. Among his latest achievements, those of arraying the Princesse DE METTERNICH and Mme. ALPHONSE DE ROTHSCHILD are blazoned as most "pyramidal," and have sent the lately besieged city into an ecstasy.

From the attention paid to the subject by the journals, it would seem that the dress mania is rampant once more in Paris, and infecting all classes of society. In fact, with the exception of cookery, no theme seems thought worthy of discussion in the volatile capital now save clothes. Of what moment, these writers seem to imply, are the tiresome vaticinations of the National Assembly, or the threadbare topic of the German occupation, compared with the grave and practical business of a "make-up" for the opera or the next ball? And what man or woman of sense will waste thought on the Army bill, or the Indemnity, that may so much more judiciously be expended on a fresh sauce or a new menu? The attitude is characteristic, and so to be expected, although, after the terrible humiliation of France, we might have hoped her people would have been a little tardier in crying "Vive la bagatelle!" Their alacrity, however, proves, among other things, that the fallen Empress was not alone responsible for the gay extravagance and wayward caprice of Paris during her tenure of the throne. Whether she were in or out of power, nay, even if the Red Prince were Governor of Paris, and the troops of Kaiser WILLIAM mounting guard at the Tuileries, doubtless the same passions and tastes would still become dominant, and Paris would still assert her sway, if not as mistress of the world, as supreme arbiter of its frocks and hats and cuisine.

Of this glory, at least, neither BISMARCK nor the Commune can deprive her. The army of France may be well or ill-organized, her debt may be large or small, her power among the nations may be puny or colossal, but none can wrest from her capital the splendid renown of its dress and its cookery. There might once, in the days of the "Grand Monarque," or of the older NAPOLEON, have been a nobler ambition; but what would you have? The natural bent in the case is clearly ineradicable for good or ill, and asserts itself no more and no less after Sedan than it would have done after a new Austerlitz or a new Jena.

A Candidate and his Showman.

Mr. GREELEY has received an honor hitherto reserved for the wooly horse, the bearded girl, the What is It, and other monsters—he has received a first-class puff at the hands of Mr. BARNUM. There is no denying the fact that the great showman has done the thing neatly, and with quite as much effusion as he is wont to exhibit in returning thanks to the ladies and gentlemen who make his heart glad by thronging the mammoth tent, which the Tribune is good enough to remind us "comfortably seats 10,000 persons." We question if Mr. BARNUM ever descanted more eloquently on the claims upon the respect of the American people of JORDE HEYN, the patriarchal nurse of our first President, than he does upon the virtues and abilities of the man who is so ambitious to become WASHINGTON's latest successor. If Mr. GREELEY be all that the fancy of the admiring BARNUM paints him, then he is a natural phenomenon beside whom the scaly marvel of the Feejee mermaid turns pale. The enraptured showman depicts his hero as cute as BARNUM, with virtues as celestial as St. Paul, and with a twelve-parson power of intellect, whatever the exact measure of that may be. Next to the undying honor of having exhibited the What is It? and kindred marvels, Mr. BARNUM counts it the highest distinction of his life to be able to cast a ballot for HORACE GREELEY.

Thereupon the delighted Tribune proceeds to give Mr. BARNUM a free advertisement in return for his very superior puff, proudly informing the world at large that "the great menagerie and circus is now traveling through Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, and Iowa," and that its public-spirited proprietor is prepared to place it every after-[illegible] of the circuit of the whole—for political purposes, of course, of course—if the party.

This is truly welcome. The followers of the carnivora would not specially interfere with "the joint discussions and arguments" which Mr. BARNUM kindly suggests for the edification of the people in mass-meeting assembled under his mammoth tent. Perhaps the fat woman, the What is It, and the cannibals might be induced to tell what they know about GREELEY, or to give their sentiments regarding the shocking "despotism" of this detested Administration. Any way, those who come to talk might remain to pay, to the mutual benefit of Mr. BARNUM, and of "the wisdom and good principles of the American people."

From the fervor of Mr. BARNUM's puff, proudly acknowledged by the Tribune of yesterday, one might have supposed that he had just discovered a new and profitable humbug. To dispel this idea, it is sufficient to read the gushing account given by an Express reporter of how Mr. GREELEY received the news of his nomination at Baltimore. At 11 P. M. we are assured that "our later Franklin" was sleeping "the peaceful sleep of a wearied child," surrounded by "paintings and engravings of historical scenes and political magnates" in a parlor of the Lincoln Club. That is to say, he slept as soundly as a "vexatious fly," whose gambols were watched by the reporter, would let him. Whether Mr. GREELEY's observations in regard to that fly were as gentle as those of my Uncle Toby on a similar occasion is a fact that must be forever lost to history. The Express reporter failed to record it, and a messenger from the Tribune office with news from Baltimore put an end to Mr. GREELEY's slumbers and dismissed that fly into obscurity.

We are compelled to say that for a man who was so innocently sleeping a few minutes ago, the conduct of the Sage exhibited a slight want of ingenuousness. He tried his best, says the reporter, to seem engrossed in the contents of a letter which he hastily picked up, and was probably regarding upside down. After a fitting acknowledgment of the congratulations of this gushing reporter, who seems to have been emboldened to take the place of the "vexatious fly," Mr. GREELEY subsided into the task of "seeming unconcerned." We trust that the perpetual candidate will see that this habit of "seeming" is apt to have a depressing effect upon his friends, to whom the frequent recurrence of a tendency to noonday slumbers might only suggest the exceeding innocence of their hero. There are people who, in spite of Mr. BARNUM's puff, will persist in believing that Mr. GREELEY's honesty, philosophy and wood-chopping have a more direct connection with his actual self than the wool had with the horse of the great showman. In justice to such simple souls, Mr. GREELEY should give up his tricks of "seeming."

A Missouri Mayor.

The post of City Marshal in a far Western town is evidently not an enviable one. Having to deal with the roughest class of frontier population, Texas cattle drovers, scouts and miners, gentry accustomed to shoot on sight and usually drunk—the conservator of the public peace, if he discharges his duties at all, constantly carries his life in his hands. Generally it is only by selecting for the position one who is readier with his weapon and more relentless in its use than the roughs themselves, that any satisfactory results at all are achieved. Of one town in Colorado it is recorded that Marshal after Marshal had been shot down in his tracks, in chance mêlée or premeditated ambush, when the famous "Wild BILL" was prevailed on to take the post. This excellent person bears the reputation of never missing his man when he has leveled his fatal pistol, and of having by a judicious exercise of this engaging talent killed more men than any other on the Western frontier. "Wild BILL" was appointed City Marshal, and for a while thereafter there was comparative quiet in this Colorado pandemonium. If two drunken drovers persisted in the luxury of a free fight within corporate limits, the Marshal hastened at once to the spot and ordered them to put up their weapons. If they hesitated so much as an instant, he promptly shot them dead, and by this simple and effective use of his prerogative vindicated the civic proprieties and his own official authority.

But even "Wild BILL" proved in the end unable to cope with the murderous lawlessness of the place, and was forced eventually to resign, in order to save his life. A colleague in Kansas City, Mo., was less fortunate or less discreet. City Marshal TAYLOR had been chosen for precisely the same qualities which commended "Wild BILL" to the suffrages of his Colorado fellow-citizens. Although not yet twenty-four, he had made himself conspicuous for dauntless courage and personal prowess, and the desperadoes who frequented the town were kept in restraint by fear of his single arm. But at last he has proved a trifle slower than occasion demanded, and the electors of Kansas City have leisure to cast about them for a new Marshal. It is not unlikely, also, that they may be called upon at the same time to select a new Mayor; for it is the latter official who has amused himself by pistoling the former.

The whole affair is characteristic of the region. The Mayor, whose name is BOYD, and who seems gifted with true Western vivacity, had been, in a liberal construction of magisterial functions, indulging in the pastime of beating a citizen in the street. For this the Marshal undertook to arrest the Mayor, and approached him for that purpose as he was sitting in the evening under the shade of his vine and fig-tree, and perhaps reviewing plans for another morning's amusement. The Marshal announced his object; the Mayor assented with amiable alacrity, and, immediately drawing a Derringer, shot the Marshal dead. He then barricaded his house, and for some time refused to give himself up for fear of being lynched. Ultimately this natural apprehension was removed, and the unpopular magnate was safely lodged in jail.

Mr. BOYD is probably not a bad type of even border Mayors. But such an episode as this occurring within so old a State as Missouri, suggests that that district might make a fruitful field for missionary labor. A Mayor beaten citizens and murdering marshals is certainly a novel spectacle. New-York has not the best Mayor in the world, but we may still be thankful that he is not Mayor BOYD.

A Word for the Car-Drivers.

For pure monotony, the dull, plodding repetition, hour after hour, and day after day, of exactly the same thing, the life of a city car-driver is probably unequaled. Were his route through the country, were the sight of green fields and running streams to relieve the tedium of his routine, the case would be modified. But the car-driver is compelled, during the long stretch of his day, to jog past the same everlasting blocks of dusty buildings and arid squares, to stare at the same shops and signs, and to go through the same mechanical processes of stopping and going on in obedience to the bell of the conductor. He has not even the poor satisfaction of regulating his own movements, but, like a horse in a treadmill, must describe his eternal round at the behest of a power behind. There is much to commiserate in a life like this, and much to call for more consideration than is commonly shown.

Why, for example, should these poor men be obliged to keep on their legs all day, when driving? In a hot season, such as we are passing through, it is too much to exact from any human being whatever, that he should remain standing for such a length of time, surrounded, as he is, by so many other discomforts. Your omnibus-driver sits perched in his airy elevation with an umbrella over his head, and commonly a good, big seat to himself. The drivers of carriages of every sort have the same privilege. Even the teamsters of trucks and drays can sit at pleasure. Only the luckless drivers of cars are condemned to dispense with a relief, the total absence of which is not only extremely exhausting, but, as we are assured by physicians, may prove very injurious. Were there good reasons for this practice of making the car-drivers stand all day to balance against its obvious disadvantages, the affair would be different; but, if there are such reasons, we fail to see them. Of course, it is important that the driver should keep his wits about him, should attend to his brakes promptly, should be always alert to avoid collision, and to respond to his bell. We suppose that the chief excuse for making him stand is that his faculties are best kept up to the mark by that position, that he is less likely to wander, or fall asleep when standing than sitting. This notion is probably altogether fallacious. It is irrational to believe that a man's brain and senses can be kept clearer by tiring his legs, and generally overtraining his system.

The truth is, a comfortable seat, adjustable to the platform at either end of the car, should be provided, and the present barbarous custom abolished. A sitting man takes up more room perhaps than a standing man; but really the horse-railroad companies have had a very good turn at jamming people together in impossible spaces, and ought by this time to be able to submit to even this dismal sacrifice. Thanks to Mr. BERGH and his associates, a good deal has been done of late for the unhappy car-horses; let us see now if something humane cannot be done for their almost equally unfortunate drivers.

MINOR TOPICS.

The World yesterday was very candid in its estimate of its own reporters. It declared that they had sent it from Baltimore "ornate descriptions, flights of rhetoric, costly and unbusiness-like writing, decorated and figurative rhetoric, tinsel, elaborate fine writing, tawdriness of external description," &c., &c. Most people will think that the reporters thus sneered at have adapted their style perfectly to the journal they represent, and have, indeed, worked hard to cover up the disgraceful failure their chiefs cut in the present contest. Those chiefs have attacked and insulted GREELEY, have abused him in all the long words in the Dictionary, and have declared that no honest Democrat can possibly support him; yet they announce their intention of supporting him—and this they call "independent journalism." Having taken elaborate pains to prove that it would be disgraceful to do a certain thing, they immediately set to work to do that thing, with much whining and snivelling. Everybody knew, of course, when the World set out in its opposition to GREELEY, that it would soon turn tail on itself, for (not to put too fine a point upon it) it never had as much pluck as a louse; but that while acting in the most despicable manner it should preach about its "high tone," "morality," &c., was unnecessary insult to its readers. We all anticipated that it would cry and run away. Its pitiful wails only compel people to call it dishonest as well as unutterably stupid. It had a manly policy before it; and of course it deserted it—what else could you expect? It was bound to come round to its old Tammany supporters—but why beat a group, and call the public round it to see it eat its dirty dish of humble pie? After all, the World and the Democratic candidate will be very well matched.

We commend Mr. HARRISON TONE, of the Ottawa Herald, Ottawa, Kansas, as an ornament to our profession. In a recent speech before the Alumni of Antioch, he had the courage to say:

"Thus Kansas has no special inducements to offer to those who want to go West. The professions are already more than filled, business is overrun, and farming of itself does not pay."

If all the local editors would tell the truth as plainly, Mr. GREELEY's occupation as President of the National Bureau of Migration (in which capacity he invited those who trusted him to deposit their funds in the Bowling-green Savings Bank) would be gone.

The habit of allowing logs to drift about in New-York Bay was almost attended with a very serious accident yesterday. When on the down trip, early in the morning, the North Shore Ferry-boat Pawnee struck a long piece of wood with such force that it became wedged between the paddle of one of the wheels, and prevented the vessel from moving either backwards or forwards for nearly an hour. During which time the engineer, pilot, and deck hands labored with axes and in the hold. The passengers, naturally enough, were considerably startled, believing that the shaft had been broken, and that an explosion was about to take place. Fortunately, however, no injury was done; but there was a good deal of inconvenience experienced by persons who changed the different landing places, and looked in vain for other means of getting to New-York. Considering the fact that accidents of the kind have often occurred to side-wheel steamers, it is somewhat surprising that no system has yet been contrived for the purpose of having all floating matter of a dangerous character picked up. The experiment would not cost a great deal, while the benefit to be derived from it would be of no little importance, more particularly to the residents of Staten Island, who are not now so well pleased with the facilities for traveling to and from the City as to be able to afford much loss of time.

Furious hurricanes have swept the eastern coast of Madagascar of late, causing a great deal of destruction. In some cases whole forests have been leveled to the ground. Ships were driven on shore, churches destroyed, and strong trees, even as tenacious as the cocoanut palm, actually torn up by the roots. The violent perturbations of nature which have taken form in tremendous freshets in India, Italy, and elsewhere, in typhoons in the China seas, and in heavy gales in the usually gentle Pacific, are thus having correspondent outbreaks in the Southern Hemisphere, and we should not be surprised to hear of similar phenomena in the Australian Archipelago and in South America. It may not be possible, as yet, to connect these manifestations by any certain physical laws, but the number of cases in which they rapidly succeed each other, implies a connection which science may be expected one day to determine.

Pigeon races are no new things under the sun, but the scale on which they have just now been carried out from the Crystal Palace, at Sydenham, is decidedly so. "Colombophily"—if the word may be forgiven—must be on the increase in England, the taste, which is derived from Belgium, having been stimulated, apparently, by the incidents of the Franco-Prussian war. A fortnight ago, at the Crystal Palace, one hundred birds were started at once for Brussels, then a second flight of fifty, to Manchester, Leeds, and other places in the North. After this there were shorter races to Oxford, Brighton and Reading. As adjuncts to these diversions, various pigeon curiosities were on view, such as microscopic telegrams, sent into Paris during the siege, pigeon-racing maps, and the like. The sport is harmless and interesting enough and may sometimes be useful. In the main, however, the telegraph beats the pigeon very much as steam does the horse.

Mrs. ELLIOTT, the unfortunate lunatic who strangled her daughter on the 5th of this month, was yesterday committed to jail "until her mental condition be ascertained by competent judicial authorities." A case of this kind, in which the truth is so plain, brings out in curious relief the absurdity of the plea so fashionable in cases of murder. It is to be noticed that in this case the real lunatic is sent to jail to await judicial action. In the other cases the alleged lunatics are allowed to go at large after a Judge and jury have pronounced them insane enough to take life.

ITHACA AND THE GORGE.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

"Minnehaha is the luckiest waterfall in the world. It has achieved more renown on a smaller capital of performance than any other I ever saw. Norway has a thousand nameless falls of greater height and beauty. Ithaca, N. Y., has two score only locally known. But this pretty, unpretending tumble of less than a hundred feet, is celebrated all over the world. There is a great deal in luck, as every sudden favorite of the public discovers in the course of time."—Bayard Taylor's Letters from the Northwest, 1871.

Central New-York, or the "Lake Country," is famed, and justly so, for the combination of wild, picturesque scenery, high fertility and cultivation.

The heart of this country lies contiguous to Lakes Cayuga and Seneca, and the "Glen," as Watkins, has been thronged by troops of tourists, who have been delighted by its beauty.

Around Ithaca is a concentration of all the best scenery of the entire section, which was always admitted; but as isolated has it been, that few, comparatively, have left the great thoroughfares to explore the beauties that lie around about the town. But of late the railroad-building mania has burst out, and the iron rails are extending in every direction, making her central by communication, as she is geographically, to the rest of the State. And the condensation and culmination of the best scenery around Ithaca is included in the gorge of Fall Creek, which to within the last two years has been practically impassable on account of great natural difficulties.

But the delighted tourist of today, who explores its beauties in safety, can scarce understand the danger and difficulties that have been overcome by energy, capital and gunpowder.

Great masses of rock have been removed to make way for a path overhanging the dizzy height, and the man or woman with soul to appreciate the work of nature can commune with nature's God—can drink and be full. Near the entrance we come upon Ithaca Fall, 160 feet high—greater in altitude than the American Fall at Niagara, no comparison as to grandeur, but more enjoyable—leaving which, and after a rather tough scramble up and down a cliff 100 feet high, we come upon Forest Fall, 60 feet high, a perfect gem of a waterfall, set, as it is, in a frame-work of rocks and evergreens. Wending our way from this most beautiful creation, we come in succession upon "Rocky" and "Foaming" Falls, 35 the one and 36 the other feet high, which must be seen to be appreciated.

Soon after we leave the last, the ear is assailed with the booming, and upon turning a sharp bend of the ravine, the eye is greeted with a sight of Trip-hammer Fall, 40 feet high, but the water so compressed by the formation of rocks that an extraordinary effect is produced.

Emerging from the gorge proper, enjoying this and the amphitheatre that would fain confine the waters, we ascend a winding stair to the rocks above, and come upon "Thunder" and Beebe Falls, respectively 215 and 15 feet high, and upon the beautiful Trip-hammer Grove and Beebe Dam, upon the waters of which boats will be moored for the use of visitors and picnic parties.

Emerging from the gorge proper, a short walk brings the tourist into the grounds of Cornell University—that gem literary diadem of the State, and justly so—four years in bringing a Faculty of about 40 and 700 students, and with endowment, buildings, library and cabinets that other institutions have been generations in trying to acquire, and where the lover of science can drink to repletion.

To the admirers of architecture this circuit of three miles is replete with interest. Apart from the grand structures, that the McGraws, Sages and Sibleys are rearing commemorative of their devotion to advancement and progress, we find adjoining the Campus the extensive and perfectly elegant residence of President A. D. White, and very meet that instead of carving and durability, the new residence of Hon. Ezra Cornell.

From the University Campus one of the finest and most interesting views in New-York State is to be had. To the north, without forty miles of lake view, and in the foreground and to the west and south a combination of hills, equaling in the dignity of mountains, of smiling fields and pleasant villages; in fact, there is no spot where the eye at a glance can take in so much that is typical of the wealth and prosperity of the Empire State.

THE CHILDREN'S FUND.

Gratifying Response of the Public to the Call for Aid.

Progress of the Sick Relief Movement—A Thanksgiving Convent is to be Made—The Picnic Today—What is Being Done With the Money.

Our readers continue to send in contributions to the Excursion Fund for poor children, and the aggregate amount so far received will enable us to aid a large number of sick children whose parents are too poor to procure medical attendance, as well as to get up excursions. The picnic project is now thoroughly arranged, and cannot fail to be successful, the details being in the hands of experienced persons who are assisting our reporters in every possible way. The donations in supplies have been very liberal, and we have secured everything needed at almost cost price. Even truckmen who have been employed have done their share at the lowest rate. In fact, sympathy with the movement to help the poor children is expressed everywhere. We have to acknowledge today the receipt of $321, making the total amount received to date $2,556 25. The following are the subscriptions received yesterday:

We have also received a donation of one dozen bats, and a large box of balls, for the children, from Messrs. Peck & Snyder, of No. 136 Nassau-street.

As was stated in yesterday's TIMES, we are making arrangements for taking care of sick children and women, so that they may benefit by the fund as well as those children who are able to go on excursions. Rev. Mr. Schultz, the Missionary at the Five Points, made a tour of his district yesterday, and proposes to expend the money we have placed at his disposal ($100) in the most useful manner. The teachers of the Children's Aid Society's Industrial Schools held a meeting yesterday, several of them coming into town from their vacations for the purpose. It has been arranged by these teachers, acting on the advice of Mr. Moore Dupuy, the acting Secretary of the Society in Mr. Brace's absence, to at once make a tour of their respective school districts in search of deserving cases for aid. These teachers will report daily to Mr. George Calder, Superintendent of the Boys' Lodging-house, at No. 327 Rivington-street, the names and addresses of sick children who need medical attendance. We have arranged with Mr. Calder to send a physician to each case, who will be paid by us out of the fund. We have also placed a small sum ($20) in the hands of the missionary laboring in the Thirteenth Ward, for the purchase of ice wherever found to be needed in his rounds. He will receive more money when necessary. In other Wards the same plan will be adopted. It will thus be seen that the ground to be covered is an extensive one, and the funds necessary to aid all who positively need it will rise to a high figure. As the response to our appeals has been so nobly and generously made, we have no doubt that every dollar necessary to carry out the plan of relief can be easily raised.

If our contributors could only go with our reporters into the poor neighborhoods, see the wretchedness there so plainly visible, and hear the thanks of the poor women who find that they are to be assisted in a practical way, they would find ample reward for their benevolence. As a rule, the poor of a great City like this are suspicious of strangers, but they are now beginning to understand that the present movement is simply intended to aid the sick and suffering, so they are frankly stating their necessities, hoping to receive relief. The excursion idea is gaining in popularity, so that there will now be no difficulty in gathering up children for any number of picnics, especially as the mothers find that their sick ones are not to be forgotten. In a few days, the relief movement for sick children will be thoroughly systematized, and we shall be able to give our readers detailed reports of the amount of work performed and the mode of doing it.

Today, if the weather does not prove unfavorable, our first excursion will take place. Fully 500 children will participate in the festivities and pleasures of the day, and we are imagine that the result will be a gratifying success. All the necessary supplies were got together last evening, and all the arrangements for a prompt and early start today are made. All along the route the picnic party will be attended by representatives of the ferry and railroad companies, and a sufficient Police escort will accompany the children to and from the grove selected. It will require two trucks to convey the provisions from the House of Industry to Hunter's Point, a fact which shows the amount of preparation that was necessary. To-morrow we shall publish an account of the picnic, and tell how the children enjoyed their holiday, and shall also give a detailed statement of the expenses incurred. By this means our readers will learn how the fund is being expended, and what amount of good is obtained therefrom.

On Saturday another excursion will take place under the care of the Children's Aid Society. The children who attend the Wall-street, the Thirteenth Ward, the Second-street, the Avenue C and the Eleventh Ward Industrial Schools will attend the picnic to the number of about 300. One of Mr. Cromett's barges and attendant steamer has been engaged, and will await the excursionists at the foot of Eighth-street, East River. One thousand tickets have been printed, and the school-teachers are now distributing them. Each of the schools will assemble at its own school-house, and report in a body at the barge by 8 A. M. A band will be in attendance, and we have ordered the necessary supplies. There will be 1,000 sandwiches, 700 cakes, 100 quarts of ice-cream, 300 pounds of ice, 1 box of lemons, 200 quarts of milk, and sundry other articles. We have purchased 500 saucers, 500 spoons, and 500 cups to be used on these excursions, as cheaper than hiring them from caterers. The party will proceed up the East River and the Sound to the Oriental Grove, on Long Island, where the children can enjoy themselves with the utmost freedom and safety. The same facilities will be furnished for games of all kinds as on to-day's excursion, so that the children will no doubt have a glorious time. A third picnic will take place on the 19th inst., for the First Ward, Fifth Ward, Cottage-place, Fourteenth Ward and Avenue B Industrial Schools. The excursion will start from the foot of Christopher street, North River, on board of Mr. Cromett's barge, and proceed to Englewood Grove, up the Hudson. There will be fully seven hundred children present on that day. These are all of the dates yet decided, though arrangements for other picnics are in progress.

One of our reporters paid a visit yesterday to the sick and destitute of the Five Points and saw relief given to several families. In one room a family of six persons were found who had had nothing to eat all day, except some bread sent them from the House of Industry. The father had been disabled from work by a crippled hand for thirteen weeks, the eldest child, a girl of thirteen years, had gone to work stripping tobacco, and, being rather delicate, had fallen sick also. With the care of her helpless husband, sick daughter and three small children, the mother had made a desperate struggle to keep her family together, and, just when all seemed lost, the Five Points Missionary, Rev. E. M. Shultz, appeared, with some help from the TIMES fund, and thus their wants were supplied. The father is now able to work, but the daughter is still too weak to resume her work, and we intend to see that she is properly cared for.

In a dark, damp, back basement was found a hard-working woman with one child, a helpless cripple, and another suffering from an inflammation of the eyes. The father is sick in hospital; the mother had buried one child on the 4th inst., and in the midst of all her poverty felt the loss of her little one as keenly as only a mother can. She was provided out of our fund with some good wholesome groceries for herself and little ones, and will now get on more comfortably. In some cases, the sick children feel keenly the deprivation of going on our proposed excursions with their more robust brothers and sisters, but they were assured by the TIMES reporter, who accompanied the missionary, that they too should have some pleasure at home. There are now quite a large number of these little invalids on the books to be looked after and supplied with such delicacies as the sick crave for, and the piping "thank you" of their thin, feeble voices is certainly not too faint to reach the ears of Him who has promised a reward for the cup of cold water given in His name.

Any of our contributors who desire to make suggestions for the disposal of the fund are requested to call upon or write to our City Editor, Mr. G. F. Williams, who has worked night and day to secure the success of this enterprise, and to whose earnest labors we are much indebted.

The Children's Excursion.

From the Evening Mail.

One of the excursions for the poor children of the City which the TIMES has been getting up will take place to-morrow if the weather is favorable. Nearly $2,250 have been raised by voluntary subscriptions to defray expenses. Tickets have been, or are to be distributed indiscriminately by the City missionaries among the hundreds of little ones in the wretched quarters of the City; and in the morning a motley procession will be formed at the Five Points House of Industry to march by the nearest route to the ferry at the foot of James-street, thence to be taken to Hunter's Point and away to Lockwood's Grove, near Rockaway beach. An early start will be taken so that the happy holidy may be long, and all the materials for a high festival of fun will be provided. Swings, balls, and all the paraphernalia of juvenile sport—candy, ice-cream, lemonade and other delicacies dear to the childish stomach will serve to make the excursion a thing to be remembered through all the long year to come, so full of privation and wretchedness to most of these little ones.

To think of an excursion of this kind for the children of poverty, who are deprived of the wholesome enjoyments that should be within the reach of all, was in itself kindly and generous, but to go practically to work to interest people in the plan, to raise the necessary funds and see that it was carried out, was better than any amount of good wishes and good intentions—it was a good deed. The happiness given to these poor children will be immense in proportion to the expense and trouble, and the TIMES managers, while getting credit for their philanthropy from all sorts of people, will find their highest compensation in the satisfaction of having done a noble thing. They have heeded the tenderest of divine injunctions, "Feed my lambs."

From the Buffalo Commercial.

There is something good in human nature after all. During the recent heated term in the Metropolis, the NEW-YORK TIMES made a strong appeal for the suffering little children, and intimated the propriety of getting up excursions in order to give the little wretches a breath of fresh air. No sooner was the suggestion made than it touched a chord in the breasts of those able to respond to the appeal. The first excursion takes place on Thursday, and a large fund is on hand to provide for others during the hot months. It is almost impossible to estimate the amount of pleasure that will be given to many a poor child in this simple way. Thousands of the little waifs in the great City will of course know nothing of the effort to give them a snatch at some of life's happy hours. But there will be hundreds who will be made to see that they are not wholly without friends ready and willing to put comfort within their reach.

FRANCE.

Discovery of Fresh Frauds Upon the Government.

A Court was, at latest advices, sitting at Lille to try M. Armand Guffroy, aged twenty-eight, merchant, residing at Lille; Madame Dubois-Meunier, aunt of the above, aged forty-two, negotiant at Brussels; M. Geisenheimer, commercial traveler, native of Frankfort, but whose residence has been in Paris for some years; M. Baron, barrister, and former Secretary-General to the Prefecture at Lille; M. Carlos Vaniaten, merchant, of Lille; M. Fontaine Delaunoy, merchant, of Lille, and M. J. Jows, manufacturer of Lille, on a charge of having defrauded the French Government in the sale of military stores. From the indictment it seems that MM. Fontaine, Delaunoy and Armand Guffroy were merchants at Lille, who offered their gratuitous services in obtaining clothing supplies, which in September, 1870, were needed for the troops in the departments, and to provide which a sum of 15,000,000 francs had been allotted. The indictment specifies certain instances in which the accused are charged with defrauding the State. In one contract for supplies to the Prefecture, the two first named are stated to have divided 120,000 francs as profits. Upon several other contracts, amounting in all to 3,896,000 francs, Delaunoy, Guffroy and Meunier are charged with having made enormous profits. The National Guard of the department numbered 96,000 men. By an order of M. Gambetta, as that time Minister of War, a maximum price had been fixed for clothing required, which in the case of shoes was 3 francs. But in the Department of the Nord no less than 96,000 of these articles were supplied, at prices ranging from 3 francs 10 centimes to 4 francs. In November, 1870, the firm of Guffroy-Meunier contracted to supply 8,000 blankets at 4 francs 25 centimes. Their authority of Prefecture is cited in the indictment as warranting the statement that upon these last-mentioned contracts the profits of the accused must have exceeded 197 per cent. M. Baron is charged with combining with Guffroy and Delaunoy to purchase in immoderate quantities and at excessive prices flannel vests and belts, which were contraband from Belgium, and upon which the frontier duties were evaded, although duly charged to the Prefecture. Upon contracts for shoes, it appears that 218,812 pairs were supplied at the rate of 1,000,000 francs. Thus each Mobilized National Guard cost forty francs for shoe-leather, or, rather, paste-board, for of that material were the soles composed. Men who left Lille with new shoes were compelled to throw them away after a few days' marching in damp ground or snow, caused new shoes to swell and the soles to open; and it was easy to shoved a finger through them. Nearly 100,000 of the shoes were supplied by Guffroy and Delaunoy, and of Vanitaen. Had the prices charged were 10 francs 50 centimes, although M. Gambetta's regulation fixed 8 francs 50 centimes as the maximum price. The supply of jackets and pantaloons was also excessive, and the prices beyond all speculation least. One of the witnesses, M. Chaix, formerly Colonel of Garde Nationale Mobilisée, deposed that arms promised in October were only served out in November, and then he only obtained too that were of decidedly bad quality, the sword bayonet not fitting on to the barrels without filing. He complained to the General and a second batch were supplied, but they were equally bad; the hammers came off the locks, and were lost by inexperienced soldiers. Some of his men under fire at the battle of Pont Noyelle were not able to reply to the Prussian fire. Nineteen other witnesses, who were all Mobilisés, and with four exceptions, filled the post of Chef de Bataillon or Capitain, deposed that the arms were of various lengths, of all kinds of make; that the barrels were too thin, of different calibre; that some were rifled and some were not; that others were rifled only through a portion of the length of the barrel; that old barrels had been fitted on to swords; that of bayonets were made to fit the stocks of others; that the bayonets would not fit on to the barrels; that the hammers came off, and were by some men carried in their pockets, by others tied on with string; that some guns were without nipples. The trial was expected to last several days.

AMUSEMENTS.

Musical.

THE GARDE REPUBLICAINE BAND.

The first concert by the band of the Paris Garde Républicaine occurred at the Rink, in Third-avenue, near Sixty-third-street, Tuesday evening. It was very largely attended, and the most enthusiastic anticipations of an excellent performance were amply fulfilled. The band of the Garde Républicaine is without question the finest heard since Mr. Gilmore's wholesale importation of organized bodies of musicians from Europe. It is better balanced than its English and German rivals, its proportions having been determined by the principles adopted by M. Adolphe Sax; its instruments, which include "saxhorns," "saxophones," and numerous recent inventions of M. Sax, are of a superior timbre; and the execution of the band, while it is quite above comparison with that of the Prussian force, is characterized by an expressiveness in which the faultless mechanical recital of the English players was relatively deficient. The special qualities of the exponents under M. Paulus were clearly shown last night, and the overwhelming applause, which marked the close of each of the compositions they rendered, and which compelled as many repeats, proved that these qualities were understood and admired. The most important numbers of the programme were one of Meyerbeer's "Torchlight Marches," "The Introduction" and "Wedding March" from Wagner's "Lohengrin" and the overture to "William Tell." The three selections were interpreted with great variety and with unimpeachable precision and finish. A cavatina from "Lucrezia Borgia," for four clarionets in unison, displayed the beauty of tone and unswerving correctness of delivery of the instrumentalists; a solo by Arban introduced M. Sylvestre, a young cornet player, whose purity of tone and taste in phrasing were conspicuous in the andante passages; and, finally, an air and variations, by Mohr, brought out in turn all the soloists. A medley of patriotic tunes ended the concert. The band played last evening at the same place, and their efforts may be again enjoyed there this night.

THE STRAUSS CONCERTS.

The second of the Strauss concerts was given, at the Academy of Music, last evening. The house was crowded in every part, and the delight which the spirited recital of the conductor's compositions awakened was expressed by even more enthusiastic and prolonged demonstrations than were made on Monday. A note to the effect that the performance of the band was decidedly superior to their earliest execution under Herr Strauss' baton, is the only one suggested by yesterday's concert. The "Thousand and One Nights" waltz, the "Tritsch Tratsch" galop, the "Morgenblatter Waltz," and the "Annen" polka, were the selections from Herr Strauss' works on the bill, and the delivery of these was supplemented by the rendering of the "On the Blue Danube" waltz, of the "Pizzicato" polka, and of the "Circassian March." Additional instrumental music was supplied by the orchestra under the lead of Herr Bergmann, and Mr. Bonawitz contributed several piano-solos, one of which was devoted to an exposition of a fresh and graceful impromptu written by himself. The third and last Strauss concert may be attended to-morrow, when it is intended that Herr Strauss' new waltz, called "The Manhattan," shall be listened to.

THE FRENCH LIBERATION FUND.

An afternoon concert by the band of the French Garde Républicaine will be given, in aid of the Liberation Fund, at the Central Park Garden today. It will be commenced at two o'clock in the afternoon.

PROGRESS OF THE BALL.

A few of the results of the Summer labors of American managers abroad can now be referred to, though a complete list of the engagements effected is not yet attainable. We have reason to believe that Mr. Maretzek has secured the services, for the Fall and Winter season, of the artists whose names follow: Mme. Pauline Lucca, Miss Clara Louise Kellogg and Mlle. Carlotta Grossi, soprano; Mlle. Sass, contralto; Signors Vizzani and Abramoglo, tenors; Signor Sparapate, baritone; MM. Jamet and Coulon, bassos. Mr. Grau has arranged his concert troupe as below: Herr Anton Rubinstein, pianist; Miss Louise Liebhart, soprano; Herr Henri Wieniawski, violinist; Mlle. Louise Ormeny, contralto; M. Rembielsky, accompanist. Finally, the Aimée opera bouffe troupe has been formed. It is to include Mlle. Aimée, Mlle. Bonelli, Mlle. Louise Rolland, Mme. Juteau, and MM. Juteau, Hardin, Lecuyer, Gabel and Ginet.

MME. PESCHKA LEUTNER.

Mme. Peschka Leutner, the artist whose powerful voice and brilliant execution awoke an almost unbounded enthusiasm when heard at the Boston Jubilee, will sing at the Brooklyn Rink this evening. The band of the Prussian Grenadier Guards will lend their aid to the entertainment, which would be rendered most attractive by Mme. Leutner's unassisted exertions. We apprehend that Mme. Leutner will not be heard in this City.

Dramatic.

WOOD'S MUSEUM.

Mr. J. J. McCloskey's drama of "Pomp," with the author in the title role, was produced at this theatre on Monday evening. In "Pomp" the author has endeavored to supply a truthful picture of plantation life in the past. In the first act the audience has a view of the Mississippi; in the second, a glimpse is afforded of the mysteries of Voudooism, and a steamboat explosion is beheld; in the third act the scenery reproduces the Blue Ridge Mountains of the old Dominion, and in the fourth the spectator is offered a picture of the City of Washington. The principal character of the piece is a faithful servant, who is more heedful of his master's interests than of his own, and who in the end receives the reward of his truth and fidelity. Mr. McCloskey is supported by Messrs. Meayer, Keene, Connor, Stewart and Debonay, and by Miss Arnot, Atherton, Page and Satterlee. Mr. Sheldon fills the part of Liza Jane, "one of the old sort," and his performance on Monday elicited roars of laughter. "Pomp" will be played twice daily during the present week. On Monday next, "Notre Dame" is to be produced.

No Detectives Detect!

From the Chicago Post, July 8.

Morse's jewelry-store was robbed a month ago. No clue could be found to the robbers. Last Saturday night, after negotiations between Mr. Morse and the robbers, the greater part of the stolen goods was restored on the payment of $4,000 by Mr. Morse to the thieves. An "honest" man is said to have acted as the agent of the thieves in arranging terms with Mr. Morse. The goods were buried, it is known, inside the city limits, and to this day no police officer has obtained the slightest clue to the robbery, the robbers, or the restoration of their booty.

THE POLITICAL FIELD.

Dishonest Purposes of the Tammany Democracy.

Reform in South Carolina—The Cincinnati Verdict—Minister Washburne's Views—An Accomplice of the Southern Democracy.

Tammany's Purposes.

From the Providence Journal, July 10.

But we may be told that the movement to which Tammany lends its aid did not originate with Tammany. Possibly not, although the testimony is that it did, that the Liberal Republican movement, if it was not planned by Tammany, was taken possession of by Tammany as soon as it assumed sufficient proportions to attract its serious attention. But be this as it may, it is certain that when the rabels of the South and the toppercheads of the North unite with a new political movement, their movements are not in the interest of honest government. It is not their style. The history of many years go to show that in Baltimore to infuse honesty into a political organization. The men who suppose these associations mean sincerely when they scribe, and however little dependence may be placed on their arrangements with others, they are not apt to be cheated themselves. The secession of Fagnoney to the Greeley nomination, and the welcome reception it has received, are conclusive as to the character of an administration that might be expected under their joint auspices.

The Tammany Plan in Pennsylvania.

From the Pittsburg Commercial, July 9.

The coalition game in Pennsylvania is to elect Wallace to the Senate, and Greeley is for him. Whenever Cameron was a candidate Greeley supported him and rejoiced over his success. But times have changed. Surrounded by the Tammany thieves, he is worried lest Pennsylvania should go Republican in October, and the game for sending Wallace to the United States Senate and himself to the White House fail! The Republicans of Pennsylvania are not likely to imitate the folly of the farmer, who, to get rid of a wasp's nest, burnt his barn. They know a way to rid themselves of the nest and save the barn too.

The Common Verdict.

From the Cincinnati Gazette, July 6.

If Mr. Greeley thinks that in doing as he has done he retains his integrity and is faithful to his principles, he only shows that he was so imbecile in character that he had not the moral sense to distinguish principle and integrity from dishonesty and treachery. Not one of the party that he is trading with thinks him faithful to his former professions. The party that Mr. Greeley is parading with to elect him President, regards him as an apostate. They will never change their opinion of his treachery. Should they elect him, they will retain this opinion, and when his one term was over, and they could speak out, this would be the judgment they would fix in our political traditions. The Republican Party has the same opinion. It is not uncommon to see persons in the Union who affirm their innocence in the face of positive proof and of the universal conviction. Mr. Greeley differs from the whole world if he affirms that, in doing as he has, he has not deserted his principles and lost his integrity; but it is not likely that the moral sense of the world will be changed to fit his individual necessity, nor that all others will be pronounced wrong and he right.

Greeley's Alliance with Tammany.

From the Evening Post, July 10.

If Mr. Greeley never made, or nobody ever made for him, a corrupt bargain with Tammany Democrats, he is, nevertheless, the candidate of that party. If his nomination at Cincinnati was not a preconcerted thing, it nevertheless was hailed with delight by the worst rebel element that had gathered there from the South, and which will accept anything that promises disorder and disorganization; it was accepted by the Southern Democrats with disgust by the very few mistaken Reformers who could bring themselves to tolerate it; and it was rejected with scorn by nearly all those who meant what they said when they asked for reform. If Mr. Greeley's unfitness for the position he covets cannot be proved by showing what he promised to pay for it, misunderstanding is nevertheless manifest and is not denied, that we know of, by a single respectable journal, and hardly by a single sensible man in the country. After all that can be said, or cannot be said, this fact remains—this damning, undeniable, and, so far as there is any danger of Mr. Greeley's election, this alarming fact, that he is the candidate of that party which in the administration of local governments, and the administration of the General Government, has reached, within the last quarter of a century, to an assumption of despotic power, and to its corrupt use, which has cost us already one war of four years; which is a constant menace of civil anarchy; is a constant threat of financial ruin; is a constant reproach to the cause of popular government, and is a uniform, if not an unanswerable, argument all over the world against republics and in favor of monarchy. Those who are willing to risk the return of such a party to power may vote for Greeley, because of some personal and selfish end they are to gain by his election; but, any man of common sense and common honesty who considers the risk by it, but yet advocates his election, seems to us to be under a delusion the most lamentable, or an infatuation little short of insanity.

Letter from Minister Washburne.

Hon. E. B. Washburne, under date of June 6, writes from Paris to a friend in Illinois:

I watch with great interest political matters at home. The nomination of Greeley was a complete farce. The people must rally and reelect Grant, who is an honest, true, brave, patriotic man. My regards to all old friends. My health is greatly improved. I hope you will have the railroad to Byron. Truly yours,

E. B. WASHBURNE.

The Southern Democrats' Accomplice.

From the Buffalo Commercial Advertiser, July 8.

No sane person doubts but that the election of Horace Greeley would substantially give the Southern Democracy control of the Government. Mr. Greeley will be nominated at their dictation, and if he is elected they will be his chief advisers. With him in the White House they will be perfectly satisfied. Hence their great enthusiasm in supporting him.

Reform in South Carolina—Views of Judge Orr.

A correspondent of the Charleston News has reported a conversation recently held with Judge James L. Orr, the most important portions of which are embodied in the following extracts from his remarks:

"It is evident that any reform to be accomplished in our State affairs must be accomplished by the Republican Party. The masses that compose the Republican majority are the colored people of the State, and their devotion to the Republican Party is not to be altered by arguments as to the comparative correctness of the principles of the two parties. Such arguments are in the main above their comprehension, and if it could be logically proved (as, mind you, I don't think it could) that the tenets of the Democratic Party were better than those of the Republicans, the colored masses would still cling to the latter party, through a sentiment which, having its origin in gratitude to the Republican Party for its benefits conferred, has now grown to an instinct of devotion to that party. But the colored masses are still disposed to favor honesty in the administration of affairs rather than rascality, because they have had no share of the plunder, but have, on the contrary, had to endure their share of the loss—because the burden of authoritative tax upon and profiteering in Government funds must eventually be borne by the poor laborers.

What they want now more than anything else is honest Republican leaders. Their choice of leaders has hitherto been confined to the "carpet-baggers," because they were the only men professing Republicanism who possessed any degree of intelligence and education. Now the time has come when the white men of this State, native South Carolinians, should resume their natural leadership in the affairs of their own State, and this they can only do by embracing Republicanism and putting themselves at the head of the Republican colored masses. There can be no more sacrifice of principle in Democrats voting for Grant than in their voting for Greeley. Both are Republicans, and they renounce their Democracy in voting for either. It is not so much the contest in this State were upon abstract principles of political economy, or between Democratic and Republican principles. The moderate Democrats of South Carolina have shown themselves willing to accept the fundamental principles of Republicanism. All they want now, so far as the State is concerned, is an honest and economical administration of affairs, and there is no man in this country more anxious for the consummation than President Grant himself. The present condition of affairs in South Carolina and Louisiana is a terrible burden for the Republican Party in the country to carry, and they are determined to purge the party of such diabolcsy."

CORRESPONDENT.—What white men belonging to this State can you mention, who are with you in this new movement?

Judge ORR.—In this part of the State there are a good many. In Abbeville County there are Dr. Limbecker, Mr. McCausland, Mr. Tarrant, the Tolberts, Jacob Miller. At Abbeville Courthouse, Mr. McKellar. At Greenwood, Mr. R. H. Hill, Robert Jones, T. B. Milford, J. P. Dupree, W. D. Mars, W. H. Traggart and James Martin.

In Greenville there are Capt. Mims Sullivan, Mr. A. Birth, Mr. J. W. Watson, and others. Hon. B. A. Bonham, Gen. Wade Hampton, R. G. Maxey, Col. Hutson and Warren Wilson. In Pickens there are Col. S. D. Goodlet and Mr. C. H. Thomas. In Anderson there are others in the field, but I cannot think of them. I cannot think of all, but there are others who have written to me to ask about the new movement, but have not yet committed themselves in its favor.

INDIANA.

Enthusiastic Republican State Convention—Difficulty of the Democrats in Obtaining a Candidate for Lieutenant-Governor.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 10.—A Republican State Convention to nominate a candidate for Congress for State at large, and Presidential electors to correspond, met in this city today. Though a delegate Convention, it was very large and enthusiastic, and its action gives great satisfaction. Hon. William Williams, present member of Congress from the Tenth District, was nominated on the third ballot. Jonathan W. Gordon, of Indianapolis, a brilliant orator and scholar, was nominated elector. These nominations became necessary by the passage of the Supplemental Apportionment bill by Congress, which gives Indiana thirteen Representatives. Two contingent electors, one a colored man, were also nominated. A meeting of State and Congressional candidates and public speakers was also held, and a series of meetings for the entire State have been arranged, including appointments for distinguished speakers from abroad. Campaign fires in Indiana are in full blaze. Grant Clubs are popular, and in some localities have absorbed the entire Greeley element, of which the Democracy had made exaggerated estimates. The nomination of Greeley creates no enthusiasm. A simple indorsement would have had better effect for Democracy in Indiana.

It is stated that the declination of Mr. De Pauw, the Democratic candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, has been in the hands of the Central Committee several days. The nomination has been tendered to Rev. W. V. Browning, of Brown County, but he has not yet accepted.

In the afternoon session of the Republican Convention for the nomination of Congressman and Electors at large, Isaac Moore, of Warwick County, was elected to fill the vacancy caused by Gen. Kimball's resignation, and Major J. W. Gordon, of Indianapolis, was nominated for the other elector at large.

NORTH CAROLINA.

Extensive Preparations for the Coming Election.

WILMINGTON, N. C., July 10.—The State canvass is progressing amid unusual excitement. Both parties are making tremendous efforts. Secretaries Boutwell and Delano will make speeches for the Republicans next week. The Conservatives have a grand mass-meeting at Weldon on the 12th, and at Raleigh on the 18th. Messrs. Carl Schurz, Trumbull, Frank Blair, Thurman and other distinguished speakers are expected. Extensive preparations have been made, and a large gathering of the people from all portions of the State is looked for at both points. Nearly every county is being thoroughly canvassed, and in some of them candidates are making two speeches per day. The election takes place August 1, and it is thought the last week of the canvass will be the most exciting ever witnessed in the State.

From the Buffalo Commercial Advertiser, July 9.

The latest change of views from a trip through the Southern States is that of Dr. T. B. Sellen, a resident of the village of Watkins, near Elmira, in this State. Mr. Sellen is widely known in the central part of Southern New-York, and his statement with regard to these matters will not be disputed by those acquainted with him. He has returned from Kentucky, where he had taken his wife to spend the Summer with relatives. The doctor, who is a shrewd observer, and a man of intelligence, reports that "the malignant rebels are unanimous in their support of Greeley, not as the New-York Tribune claims, because they wish to see the Union restored, but because the patriotic citizens of the Republic, but, as they themselves openly assert, in order that the may obtain power, and as far as possible restore the condition of society which existed before the war." The Unionists, on the other hand, are for President Grant almost to a man, believing that their safety depends on his re-election. Mr. Sellen left home a warm supporter of the Cincinnati nominees—his name was attached to a call for a Greeley and Brown meeting in Watkins, but he has returned, determined to do his best for the cause of Republicanism. He is convinced by what he saw and heard while in Kentucky that the peace of the country would be jeopardized by the success of Horace Greeley. The Southern Democrats want him for President because they know he will be in their hands all that they could wish or desire. The fact that the whilom rebels are so very anxious for Greeley's election ought to be enough to cause every Union man to vote against him.

Grant and Wilson Club at East New-York.

A Grant and Wilson Club was organized at East New-York, some two weeks since, which promises to do good service in the coming campaign. They held a ratification meeting on the evening of the 9th inst., which was addressed by Messrs. Ostrander and Taylor, of Brooklyn, and Rev. Mr. Manning, (colored,) of Williamsburg. A great deal of enthusiasm prevailed, and the Club expect to gather into their fold the Republican of the town, and a great many Democrats who prefer Grant to Greeley.

Transformations in Connecticut.

From the New-Haven Journal, July 8.

Somebody writes to the Tribune that the towns hereabout are all alive with Greeley. In addition to such popular leaders as Dr. J. J. Jacques and George Washington Rogers, of Meriden, we are informed that the ranks have been recruited by Wm. E. Foote, of Milford; Dr. N. B. Wright, of Waterbury, and Robert L. Bontecou, of Wallingford, all life-long Republicans." We shall not be surprised to find in the next Tribune the conversion of Hon. James Gallagher, Hon. Thomas M. Waller and Hon. Henry A. Mattoon, announced as "life-long Republicans," turned Greeleyites.

Greeley's Bargain with the Tammany Ring.

From the Bangor (Me.) Whig, July 8.

The NEW-YORK TIMES charges—and the charge has not been, we believe, denied—that there is a bargain between Greeley and the Tammany Ring, in pursuance of which they support him. Through this bargain "Gov. Hoffman expects to get the renomination for Governor, and the Greeleyites and Fenton-ites will unquestionably accord the same influence in favor of Greeley for President." The Nation, always careful in its statements, also asserts that Mr. Greeley is daily contracting obligations to the Tammany politicians which he will be forced to discharge by quartering them on the Treasury, in the event of his election. It is certain the class of men who are making themselves prominent on his behalf in New-York are not in the habit of working for a living.

Grant Club at the Capital of Maine.

A Grant and Wilson Club was formed at Augusta, Me., on Saturday night last. Mayor Evleeth called the meeting to order, and Hon. William T. Johnson presided. Half hour speeches were made by Senator Morrill and Speaker Blaine. Mr. Morrill said that the condition of the Democracy is hopeless—that they have decided to die at Baltimore, and Gen. Grant will be re-elected President by a larger majority than has been given for a Presidential candidate during the last twenty-five years. Speaker Blaine said that the nomination of Greeley at Cincinnati was made on account of his being a formidable obstacle to the success of the Union cause during the war, and that he would therefore receive the support of those at the South, who are today rebels at heart. Both speakers were enthusiastically cheered.

The Virginia Democratic Committee's Plan of Representation.

The Richmond Whig manifests much disapproval of the new basis of representation prepared by the Democratic State Committee of Virginia. It says:

The plan "is based on the idea of a white man's party, and dwarfs the great Conservative party of the State from its original and grand proportions to a sectional faction;—and that, too, based on race. The absurdity of a Greeley committee, professing to desire the election of Greeley to the Presidency, basing its party on color, is painfully conspicuous. The indulgence is that our contemporaries are little conscious, when fortune is not realize the ridiculous figure they cut, and can't help giving a Bourbonic twist to everything they touch. But this, preposterous as it is, is not the most objectionable feature of the plan. It sows the seed of discord in our own State and party, and works a moral injustice to our cause little considered, when fortune is to dwell in counties where there is a large preponderance of the black race. These are still to be allowed selection as at present; but that death may be no mistake about the money, their delegates are entitled to the votes, or only to votes that will avoid nullity. They are deconstituted, presumably—slaughtered in the house of their friends."

General Notes.

The Connecticut Legislature wants to adjourn next week.

Secretary Delano will speak in Raleigh, N. C., July 24, and in Fayetteville July 25.

Secretary Boutwell will speak at Greensboro, N. C., on Wednesday next, and at Charlotte on the following day.

The Savannah Republican calls upon the Democratic papers and leaders of Georgia to cease their war upon Gen. H. Hill, as both unjust and senseless.

The Chenango Telegraph contradicts "on the best authority, the report that Senator Foster favors Greeley. No man is more emphatic for Grant."

Hon. S. F. J. Tabue has announced himself as an independent Anti-Greeley Democratic candidate for Congress in the Seventh District of Kentucky.

Fifty-two Democrats of Freeport, Ill., a few days ago signed a paper declaring that under no circumstances will they vote for Greeley for President.

The Republican Committee of Cortland County has issued an eloquent address, exhorting all true Republicans to stand firm and steadfast by the Republican colors.

The Washington Star makes a doleful appeal to the Democrats of North Carolina to try to save the State at the coming election, and calls upon "every white-hearted son" to do his full duty.

There are two Democratic candidates for Congress in the Seventh District of Tennessee, and it has been decided to take a vote of the district at the August election to determine which the party prefers.

The Worcester (Mass.) Spy says: "Greeley's chance is too manifest to be denied, and too reprehensible to be excused. His apostacy cannot be matched by anything like it in our political history."

The Louisiana Democratic Committee have published an address, in which they declare distinctly that there can be no bargain with Warmoth, whom they denounce as a "beggar of four years ago, who was foisted into office upon a moderate salary, yet today is worth millions."

The Republican conferees of the Pennsylvania Twenty-third District met at Pittsburg, Tuesday, to nominate a candidate for Congress, but as each one of the three counties voted for its own nominee, there was no choice after eleven ballots, and they adjourned until the 23d inst.

A number of masked men attacked the residence of a colored mail agent at Terre Haute, Ind., on Saturday night, while he was absent attending to his duties. They drove his family from the house, and destroyed most of his household furniture and goods. No cause can be assigned, except that the negro holds a position in the mail service.

Speaking of the approaching meeting of the Pennsylvania Republican Committee, the Harrisburg Journal says: "We want conciliation, while at the same time we must have a bold declaration of the necessity of obeying the will of the majority of the party as it is expressed in the candidates before the people. All factions, all rivalries, all interests inside of the party, must be as nearly as possible satisfied."

Local Notes.

Last evening a South Brooklyn Grant and Wilson Republican Campaign Club was organized at Court-street, near Joralemon-street. John F. Henry was elected President; A. G. Coffin, G. F. Gregory, Wm. Thomas, L. S. Burnham and J. F. Holcomb were elected Vice-Presidents; A. H. Doty, Recording Secretary, and Dr. James Watt, Corresponding Secretary.

The new Grant and Wilson Club of the Eleventh Assembly District held its second regular meeting last evening at Republican Hall, Broadway and Twenty-third-street. Mr. Seymour A. Bunce, the President, was in the chair. The Chair announced that the Committee on Constitution and By-laws was to have reported a set of rules for the permanent organization of the Club, but the Chairman of the Committee is sick, and no report is ready, nor will it be before the next meeting. Short speeches were made by the Chairman, Judge John H. White and others, after which the meeting adjourned.

Exactly thirteen persons met last evening at No. 889 Third-avenue, under the name of the Twentieth Assembly District Greeley and Brown Club, to informally ratify the Baltimore nomination. A committee of five was appointed to confer with the Tammany Hall and other organizations of the district, for the purpose of consolidation. Some of the members said it was a shame the Club had not yet put up a banner or transparency, but one of the Committee appointed to attend to that matter asked where the money was to come from. The Transparency Committee was therefore discharged, and a Committee of one appointed to get a transparency as soon as possible. Col. Willis then made a speech, not unlike one he made four years ago, for the greatest living soldier of the age.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, June 22, 1872.

GENERAL ORDERS NO. 53.—THE "AN act making appropriations for the support of the army for the year ending June 30, 1873, and for other purposes," approved June 6, 1872, contains the following:

"For manufacture of arms at the national armory, one hundred and fifty thousand dollars; Provided, That no part of this appropriation shall be expended in the introduction of a breech-loading system for muskets and rifles shall have been adopted for the military service, upon the recommendation of the Board to be appointed by the Secretary of War, which Board shall consist of not less than five officers, as follows: One General officer, one Ordnance officer, and three officers of the line; one to be taken from the Cavalry, one from the Infantry, and one from the Artillery. And Provided further, That the system which may be adopted shall be the only one to be used by the Ordnance Department in the manufacture of muskets and carbines for the military service; and no royalty shall be paid by the Government of the United States for the use of said patent to any of the officers or employees or for any patent in which said officers or employees may be directly or indirectly interested."

In conformity with the above provisions a Board will assemble in the City of New-York on the 1st day of September, 1872, with authority to adjourn to Springfield Armory in order to avail itself of the services of the officers of the Army which are therein specified, and its duty shall be to consider and recommend for adoption a breech-loading system for muskets and carbines for the military service.

Brigadier-General A. H. TERRY, U. S. Army.
Colonel F. V. GREENE, Ordnance Department.
Colonel H. B. CLITZ, 10th Infantry.
Major T. T. ROBERTS, 7th Cavalry.
Captain J. L. KIDDER, 5th Artillery.
1st Lieutenant HENRY METCALFE, Ordnance Department.

It is entitled on recorder of the Board.

All persons interested in small arms are invited to submit to the Board, in writing, such propositions as may be adopted by the Board.

The Ordnance Bureau will supply such information bearing on the business under investigation as may be called for by the Board.

By order of the SECRETARY OF WAR.
E. D. TOWNSEND, Adjutant-General.

SUPREME COURT.—IN THE MATTER of the application of the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of the City of New-York, relative to taking the opening of One Hundred-and-twenty-first-street, from Fourth-avenue, and from Third-avenue to the Harlem River, in the City of New-York. We, the undersigned Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment in the matter entitled matter, hereby give notice to the owner or owners, occupants or occupants of all houses and lots and improved or unimproved lands affected thereby, and to all others whom it may concern, that we have completed our estimate and assessment, and that all persons interested in these proceedings, or in any of the lands affected thereby, and who may be opposed to the same, do present their objections in writing, duly verified, to Richard Tweed, our Chairman, at the office of the Commissioners, No. 52 Nassau-street, (Room No. 34,) in the said City, on or before the 14th day of August, 1872, and that we, the said Commissioners, will hear parties so objecting within the ten week days next after the said 14th day of August, and for that purpose will be in attendance at our said office on each of said ten days at 12 o'clock, M. That the abstract of the said estimate and assessment, together with our maps, and also all the affidavits, estimates and other documents which were used by us in making our report, have been deposited in the office of the Department of Public Works in the City of New-York, there to remain until the 28th day of August, 1872. That the limits embraced by the assessment aforesaid are as follows, to wit: All those lots, pieces or parcels of land, lying and being on One Hundred-street, between the Bloomingdale Road and the Harlem River, in said City of New-York, and extending on either side of One Hundred-street, half the distance to the next street thereto; and that our report herein will be presented to the Supreme Court of the state of New-York at a special term thereof, to be held in the New Court-house at the City Hall, in the City of New-York, on the 10th day of September, 1872, at the opening of the Court on that day, and that the said report will be confirmed at such time thereafter as counsel can be heard thereon, a motion will be made that the said report be confirmed.—Dated New-York, July 8, 1872.

BOOKS CLOSE JULY 15.

THE AMERICAN
BRIDGE COMPANY,
OF CHICAGO, ILL.

L. B. BOOMER, of Chicago, President.
(ORGANIZED AUG. 1, 1870.)

AUTHORIZED CAPITAL STOCK, $1,000,000

The whole amount of the authorized Capital Stock of this Company has having been issued, the balance thereof will be issued for subscriptions at par, payments for same to be made in four installments of 25 per cent. each, viz:

25 PER CENT. JULY 15, 1872.
25 PER CENT. AUG. 1, 1872.
25 PER CENT. SEPT. 1, 1872.
25 PER CENT. OCT. 1, 1872.

The Subscription Books now open at the office of the undersigned will be closed on July 15, or as soon as the new stock is fully sub-scribed.

The total amount of stock issued at this time is $412,700, and of this amount the Company owns a proportionate share of $164,800, and is now doing a flourishing business. One thousand men are constantly employed in their extensive works, and they now have on hand $1,250,000 of work for various railroads in the United States, among which may be mentioned the following:

CHICAGO, R. I. & PACIFIC.
CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN.
MICHIGAN CENTRAL.
MISSOURI PACIFIC.
ATLANTIC & PACIFIC, &c.,

and the Company is now offered work to the amount of over $6,000,000, including some of the largest bridges ever built in this country; to accept of which, and further business, necessitates a larger working capital, as immense amounts of material have to be kept constantly on hand, and the Company are frequently obliged to receive, in part payment for their work, railroad and other bonds, which are perfectly good securities, but not always immediately marketable.

The career of the American Bridge Company, though brief, has already fully demonstrated the profitableness of the enterprise. The Company has constructed since its organization, and up to the 31st of December, 1871, a total of 26,127 feet of bridges, 11 turning tables, and 16 iron roofs, and pneumatic and screw pile substructures, costing $3,400,000, and have facilities for the construction of pneumatic piles unsurpassed by any Company in the country, and a capacity for the construction of at least 150 feet of bridges for every working day in the year.

The Iron Railroad and Highway Bridge at Leavenworth, of three spans of 340 feet each, and the Union Pacific Bridge across the Missouri River, of eleven spans of 250 feet each, were constructed by this Company.

The net profit arising from this business, as shown by the books of the Company up to the 31st of March, 1872, was the sum of $373,482 14, or at the rate of $324,800 per annum, or nearly 40 per cent. upon the capital stock then outstanding. With the proposed new structures, machinery, &c., the Company will have much greater capacity, and the proceeds of the increased issue of stock will enable them to buy material for cash, thereby making a saving of from $50,000 to $75,000 per year.

The Company can undoubtedly, on above basis, make dividends of from 30 to 35 per cent. per annum on the full amount of capital, $1,000,000, with a fair prospect of considerable increase.

The undersigned are prepared to give to those inquiring for information, such information regarding the reliability of the Company's statements, and the unquestioned integrity and ability of its officers.

We confidently commend to capitalists the above, as an investment worthy their attention.

The Road runs from Buffalo to the Detroit River, and is the Eastern link in the new AIR LINE FROM BUFFALO TO CHICAGO, and has been under construction for about two years past by railroad men who have seen the necessity for a STEEL RAIL, LOW GRADE SHORT ROUTE between the great railroad systems which diverge from Chicago, Toledo and Buffalo.

Among the builders of the road, by whose cash subscriptions 230 miles (out of 230) have already been graded, bridged and made ready for the superstructure, a large part of the steel rails bought, all of the materials for the stations, and a part of the equipment purchased, are:

MILTON COURTRIGHT, JOHN F. TRACY, DAVID DOWS, WM. L. SCOTT, HENRY FARNHAM, R. A. FORSYTH, HENRY H. PORTER, JOHN M. BURKE, M. L. SYKES, JR., R. R. ALLEN, all directors, either in the Chicago and North-west, or the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific; GEO. OPDYKE, of the Midland Road; JOHN B. ALLEN, SIDNEY DILLON, DANIEL DREW, J. S. CASEMENT, J. & J. CASEY, O. S. CHAPMAN, JOHN ROSS, DAVID STEWART, and F. H. WINSTON.

THE ROAD will be

33 MILES SHORTER THAN ANY OTHER ROAD,

either BUILT or in contemplation between Buffalo and Chicago, and will also shorten the distance between Toledo and Buffalo twenty-three miles.

THE MAXIMUM GRADE on the entire line does not exceed FIFTEEN FEET to the mile—and Ninety-six per cent. of the road IS STRAIGHT.

THE ROAD WILL BE COMPLETED and in running order on or before Dec. 31 of this year.

The principal and interest of the bonds are payable either in New-York, London or Frankfort.

We confidently recommend the bonds to all classes of investors.

ARKANSAS STATE LOAN.
A LIMITED NUMBER OFFERED AT Par Cents and Accrued Interest.

These Bonds were issued under act of the Legislature for the purpose of sustaining the "Arkansas Central Railroad." In accordance with section 8 of the Constitution of the State of Arkansas, which provides as follows: "The credit of the State or counties shall not be loaned for any purpose without the consent of the people, delivered through the ballot-box," which act was submitted to the people at the general election held in November, 1868, and unanimously ratified by them. The Bondholders of the State have no power to grant any additional and whatever is done, properly, the debt of the State cannot be increased, except by amending the Constitution through a vote of the whole people.

As an additional security, these bonds are secured by lien of the Arkansas Central Railway by special endorsement, recorded, as a mortgage in every county through which the line passes, acting as a direct Receiver of the property of the Company, its real estate, rolling stock and franchises.

It is also recorded that the "Faith and credit of the State are solemnly and irrevocably pledged for the payment and redemption of the principal and interest of said bonds, as they mature."

Every property mortgaged currently thus to protect the holder from the danger of corruption and fraud.

Unlike ordinary railway bonds, these are offered payable in gold, and consequently free from the Gold Exchange, or may be observed from the daily stock quotations.

The bonds are of the denomination of $1,000 each, payable to bearer, and therefore negotiable by simple delivery. The interest coupons attached to each bond are payable semi-annually at the office of the Union Trust Company, in New-York, by the Treasurer of the State, on the 1st day of October and April in each year, until the principal of the bonds is redeemed at par in 1905. NOTICE TO TRAVELERS.

Families or gentlemen going to leave on the Continent of Europe, who can afford the expense of a courier, should never leave Paris without one. Their services are invaluable in relieving the travelers from multiplicity of cares and troubles respecting passports, examination and conveyance of luggage, in securing the best accommodation, in protecting the traveler from imposition and an infinity of annoyances, to which they are exposed in various parts of the Continent. Competent and trustworthy couriers and traveling servants may always be obtained by applying to the COURIER SOCIETY, No. 3 Rue d'Alger, near the Tuileries Garden, Paris.

WORTH-STREET.

The Grading of the Street to be Commenced Immediately.

The Effect of the Improvements—Closing of the Houses—How the Inhabitants Take It—Scenes in the Neighborhood.

For some time past the Department of Public Works has begun to comprehend its duties and the requirements of public health and decency. Under the régime of Tweed its sole aim appeared to be by opening up the upper part of the island to invent new methods of squeezing money out of property-owners, and to make speculations in real estate in happy accord with their so-called improvements. While this went on there were Wards down-town whose condition was a public wrong and a public disgrace. Of these the Sixth Ward has been the most notorious. The lower part of Worth-street, from Centre-street to Chatham-square, had never been graded in all the years under which Tammany swayed the destinies of the City. Consequently, all the streets that joined with it or crossed it, Park and Pearl streets, Baxter and Mulberry, were at the point of junction in a most miserable and shameful state. The junction of these streets composed the famous district of the Five Points, and the men who were responsible for the condition of the City, when told that Worth-street was not graded; that it had neither paving, guttering, crossing, nor sidewalk; that there was a deep hollow where Baxter and Mulberry streets crossed, filled with pestiferous stagnant water; that the region about the Points was alternately a quagmire and a Sahara of poisonous dust, thought it a sufficient excuse for permitting this state of things to continue, that "the poor lived there."

To them it was a matter of indifference what sort of surroundings the poor had. The time has come, it is to be hoped, when it is understood that the condition of the inhabitants of the Worth-street district was the result as much of municipal neglect as of extreme poverty and its accompanying degradations. Whenever a district is neglected by the authorities, it will be neglected by the inhabitants. The neighborhood loathe the place, and never enter it; the inhabitants cling to it, and never leave it. So, in a few short years, a district in the heart of a great city becomes a plague spot, a centre of contagious diseases, a nursery for thieves, a home for the degraded, and a hiding-place for the criminal. It was so with the Five Points; and the evil originated from the neglect of the authorities to grade Worth-street, and to decently pave the streets that connect with and cross it.

Now, at last, the Department of Public Works is grading the neglected thoroughfare, and reforming the district in best street. Now, from No. 143, about 100 feet east of Centre-street, to the junction with Chatham-square, the level is being raised on an average about three feet and a half. Carts are continually arriving within this built to dump their contents, which sometimes are of so questionable a character that an observer would naturally fear for the health of the neighborhood. The contractor gets a small sum from each cart, and has, in fact, allowed a trifle too much dumping, for there are places which are at least fourteen inches above what was required. It is considered that the road-bed will settle. It is generally understood in the neighborhood that Worth-street is to be paved with trap-block pavement immediately after the grading is completed, and the contractor has warned all the property-holders who have sidewalks to take them up, because if they do not, the flag-stones will become his perquisite. This suggests an inquiry as to the whereabouts of the granite blocks laid down some time ago, before the street was graded. They were removed by the contractor, and it is to be hoped they will be laid down again when the grading is completed; otherwise, the property-owners will have to pay a second assessment for this very expensive pavement.

The condition of many of the houses affected by the change is somewhat ludicrous. One of them, a frightful wooden shanty built out upon the road, has been actually closed. The sidewalk comes right up to the doorway, and as the flooring is now three and a half feet below the road, there was no possible way of entering save by a sequent leap down from the door. This place was called the Eureka House, and oysters and clams were retailed here in large quantities. The shells were faithfully piled up outside the door, and as they were removed at rare intervals, the Eureka House was as fragrant as a Scotch midden. On the dingy wooden shutter was a torn poster notifying the public generally that "the annual chowder of the First Ward Mug Liters was to come off on a specified day. Not far from the Eureka is a curious two-story brick structure of great age. There is no communication between the two floors. What was the first floor and is now the basement was entered by a door in the centre which opened abruptly into the one large room, some thirty-five feet long, as present occupied by a dealer in unsavory rags. The present first floor, forming the second, is approached by a covered staircase at the side of the house. The proprietor had engaged carpenters, and was busy erecting a wooden wall to protect the house from the incursions of the rolling earth of the road-bed. Next door to this quaint old place, which may have once been a quiet country-house, built by some eccentric Knickerbocker, is the Five Points House of Industry, conducted by Superintendent Barnard. Taking to heart the admonition of the contractor, he had removed the sidewalk, which was stored away in the cellars. He informed the reporter that the place had been built sixteen years ago, and that no one then knew what the grade of the street would be. The consequence is that there will be two feet between the level of the sidewalk, and they are in doubt whether to raise the floors, which will make the rooms somewhat low, or to have stone steps down to the entrances, or to close them up and open others. It is probable that the second plan will be adopted as the least expensive. Directly opposite to the House of Industry stands the Five Points Mission, under the superintendence of Mr. Shaffer. This is situated on the site of the Old Brewery, and is on Park-street. Here they are affected by the grading to a greater extent in part of the building and to less in another. But as they have good areas, they will not have to offer any alterations in the entrances; the trouble with them is that the light of the lower rooms will be somewhat lessened. One of these is used as a reading-room and library in the evenings, and the other as a store-room. Along this side in Park-street, all the basements which were leased as small stores have been closed, and cause a hereafter to be occupied by them. One of them, which, by the way, is owned by a well-known Quaker, who owns six houses in a solid block, sustains considerable loss. But he seemed to be quite in good spirits, and thought the change an excellent one.

Where Baxter-street crosses Worth, although the street has been graded, yet they have not been able to complete the road-bed to the sidewalk, as the inhabitants have not taken any steps to protect themselves against the falling earth. There is an old wooden shanty at the north east corner—a grocery of most unprepossessing appearance—which must be closed in a few days, yet the inmates were making no preparations for removal. On the south-west corner of the street—somewhat more civilized—a wooden house was being raised to the new level of the street, exciting the most intense interest among the population, which, to the number of 100, was gathered in front. The women of the place refused to come out, and occasionally peeped in a scared way from the upper windows. The crowd assisted them with cries of, "Mary Annaleh, come out; arrah, come out wid yer, woman, yes all be murthered entirely;" but a shake of the head was the only reply. Next door was a brick structure, the first floor of which was a rectifiers, or, in the language of the quarter, a "bucket-shop," where alcoholic poison is retailed at remarkably low rates. At the windows above were many Jewish faces, which served partly to explain the sign, "Bosch Israel Cedas Kodesh" adorning the dingy wall. The people in the bucket-shop appeared perfectly secure, confident that their brick walls would stand the shock, but there was unmistakable anxiety in the Jewish physiognomies, and the Israelites probably would have left their place, but they feared the rough Irish crowd gathered above.

In Mulberry-street Mr. Buckhout's engineers were making surveys for the under ground railway, and the old women of the neighborhood were evidently afraid of the shocks. They inquired anxiously if it was from the Board of Health, and were evidently laboring under the idea that it was a new kind of Abolitionist. The Jews and Italians were in a high state of jubilation, and were apparently calculating how much Mr. Vanderbilt would give each of them for their houses. In this street there are only slight changes effected by the grading of Worth-street.

The Orange Parade.

It was stated in yesterday's issue of the Times that on the occasion of the approaching parade of the Orange societies trouble might be anticipated from the "Boulevard men." It has since transpired that an organization has been started by a party in the confidence of the "crowbars" that arms are being collected, and extensive preparations made to oppose the progress of the intended parade. The Irish societies—religious and political—do not countenance such a movement, and are totally opposed to any interference with the Orange parade. It is stated that 4,000 men are enrolled in the organization.

The Derry Walls Lodge No. 2 of the Orange society, James Hale, W. M., met last evening at No. 1 Fourth-avenue to make arrangements for the parade on the 12th. A number of new members were enrolled, and measures taken to make the intended demonstration a grand success.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH.

Meeting of the Board Yesterday—Sanitary Reports—Fearful Mortality Record.

The Board of Health held a meeting yesterday, President Bosworth in the chair.

Commissioner Gross, Special Committee on Disinfection, reported that during seven days forty-nine miles of streets and street-gutters had been disinfected at an expense of $248 30, and an appropriation of $800 was made to continue the work. Assistant Inspector Lee made a report in regard to the condition of the establishment of the New-York Rendering Company, at the foot of West Thirty-eighth street. Dr. Lee reports that he visited the establishment on the afternoon of the 3d inst., and found the offal boat in active operation. The stench about the place was intolerable. Decomposing carcases of horses covered the after part of the boat, and the bodies of dead animals were found lying rotting in the sun in the road leading to the dock.

Dr. Lee also visited the fat-rendering establishment of M. Donohue & Co., at the foot of West Thirty-ninth-street, on the 8th inst., and found the work there going on in violation of the ordinance of the Sanitary Code. Mr. Donohue was arrested and held for trial in $500 bail by Justice Cox. The Board ordered the report on file and no definite action was taken.

The City Sanitary Inspector, Dr. E. H. Janes, presented a report in regard to the terribly filthy and unwholesome condition of a large structure at Forty-eighth-street and Lexington and Fourth avenues, owned by the New-York and Harlem Railroad Company, and occupied by them as a place for the loading of cars with brewery grains and other refuse matter. It is reported that the refuse matter is loaded in open cars, and then run out on the track to rot in the sun. The ground about the structure is completely saturated with the drippings from the cars, and the stench from this place is terrible, and permeates the entire neighborhood all of which is in violation of the provisions of the Sanitary Code. The Sanitary Committee, to whom this report was referred, recommended that the Harlem Railroad Company be ordered to load the refuse into water-tight cars, to be covered against the rays of the sun. The matter was referred to the Committee on Laws and Ordinances, and a special meeting of the Board will be held today, to take action in the matter.

A communication was received from the Commissioner of Public Works, calling the attention of the Board to quantities of decaying animal and vegetable matter floating in the slip at the foot of Charles street, North River, where one of the public baths is located. The matter was referred to the City Sanitary Inspector for investigation and report.

Commissioner Stephen Smith presented the following resolutions, which were adopted:

Resolved, That the City Sanitary Inspector, in conducting the inspection of tenement-houses pursuant to the orders of this Board, shall cause all violations of section 9 of the Tenement-house act and of the sanitary ordinances to be reported in regard to the apartments, halls, stairways, passages, walls, ceilings, areas, courts, cellar-yards, alleys or outhouses, in or about such houses, to be carefully noted and reports thereon duly submitted.

Resolved, That whenever it shall appear that any building, or part thereof, is unfit for human habitation by reason of its want of repair, the City Sanitary Inspector shall forthwith report the fact to this Board, as provided by section 11 of the Tenement-house act.

Resolved, That the City Sanitary Inspector shall cause the requirements of this Board regulating the exposure for sale of articles of food, and providing for the removal of such articles deemed to be unsound or unwholesome, to be enforced.

After some other business, the City Sanitary Inspector reported the removal of ten cases of small-pox to the hospital during the week.

Dr. Chas. F. Russell, Register of Records, reports as follows: During the past week there were reported 1,569 deaths, being an increase upon the previous week of 301, and an excess of 659 over the corresponding week of the past year. Zymotic diseases occasioned 522 deaths; constitutional, 139; local, 479; developmental, 44, and violent causes, 46. The fatal cases of small-pox increased from 21 to 29; those of measles from 15 to 25; those of scarlatina from 17 to 34; those of typhoid fever from 5 to 10; those of erysipelas, from 3 to 13; those of puerperal fever, from 0 to 4; those of cerebro-spinal fever from 21 to 29, and those of diarrheal affections from 295 to 416. The deaths by diphtheria and croup diminished from 15 to 10, and those by whooping cough amounted to the same number, 15, as in the previous week. The mortality of phthisis pulmonalis rose from 89 to 81, and that of the local respiratory affections, of which 11 were of the pneumonia furnished 29 deaths. 196 persons succumbed to the effects of solar heat, the greatest weekly mortality from this cause ever recorded in this City, without exception, was that of the week ending July 21, 1866, during which 246 such cases were registered. The mean temperature of that week was 1.30° less than that of the week just closed. The total mortality of the past week has never been equalled in the history of New-York. The next largest number of deaths, viz: 1,362, was registered in the week ending July 21, 1866. The deadly influence of the intense heat and high humidity of the last week was exhibited not only directly in the great number of victims of sunstroke, many of whom were persons in robust health, but also indirectly as an accessory cause of death in cases of persons suffering from every variety of disease; 217 deaths were certified by Coroners, and 235 took place in institutions; 362 deaths, or 63 per cent, of the mortality, occurred among children less than five years of age, and 27 deaths among persons seventy years old and upward; 41 deaths were due to accident and negligence, 2 to homicide, and 3 to suicide.

The following were the principal meteorological features of the week, as recorded for the Department at the Copper Union: Maximum temperature in the shade, 99°; in the sun, 128°; minimum temperature, 70°; mean temperature, 83.97°, being 8.91° higher than that of the corresponding period during the past ten years. Mean reading of barometer, 29.776 inch.; mean degree of humidity, 73.01.

THE GOTHAM MURDER.

Trial of James Burns for the Shooting of John O'Halloran—The Defense a Plea of Insanity.

The case of James Burns, indicted for the murder of John O'Halloran in the Gotham drinking-saloon, in the Bowery, on the morning of the 28th of April last, came up in the Court of General Sessions yesterday.

The Assistant District-Attorney, in opening the case, stated that O'Halloran was quietly sitting in the saloon with some friends, when Burns burst in with a pistol in his hand, ran up to him, and shot O'Halloran in the side, afterward following him up and firing again, the second ball lodging in the thigh.

The testimony of Dr. Marsh, Deputy-Coroner, was read, describing the wounds, and giving the opinion that death was caused by pericardiris and pleuritis from the pistol-shot wound.

James Leahey, of No. 69 Hester street, was the first witness. He was sitting with O'Halloran and a man named McCabe, about eight feet from the door of the saloon, with his back to the door, when Burns came in rapidly and cried out "Stand up!" McCabe stood up, "Look out!" and witness dodged his head; then O'Halloran got up, and witness saw Burns shoot him; O'Halloran ran out of a side-door, followed closely by Burns, and a moment after another shot was heard; neither O'Halloran nor Burns were intoxicated.

Patrick Ethel, clerk, bar-keeper of the Gotham, testified to the quiet character of O'Halloran, and said that Burns had not been in the place for six months before the shooting.

Other witnesses having been examined, the prosecution here rested.

The prisoner's counsel, in opening, said that the testimony of the witnesses for the prisoner's case, as from their own showing he must have been insane, killing his friend as he did, without warning, and without cause. Counsel was sure that the jury would see that Burns was suffering from delirium tremens.

Hiram D. Ferguson, a former Deputy Sheriff, testified: I have known the prisoner about twelve years; have known him to be insane twice; once was in last February, after he had been drinking, when I went to his residence, and he spoke of two men wanting to murder him and his family, and others who wanted to ruin him in business down-town; the other time was within a day or two of the shooting, when I met him in the City Hall Park, and he looked wild and said he was going up stairs to throw two men out of the window; I knew he was suffering from delirium tremens; I saw him on the night of the shooting, and he acted strangely; he was in the habit of going on long sprees.

The case will be resumed this morning.

Prostrated by the Heat.

The following cases of prostration by the heat were reported by the Police yesterday:

Felix Winsch, aged thirty-six, of No. 117 East Houston-street, while at work on the building No. 222 Second-street.

Benjamin Gibson, laborer, in Lawrence-street, near Broadway. Taken to Reception Hospital.

Charles Gerard, forty-three years of old, was overcome by heat while in the First Precinct, yesterday. He was attended by Dr. Bruce, of the Park Hospital, and sent home.

Owen Fitzsimons, of Fifty-second-street, between First and Second avenues, was overcome by the heat in Twenty-fifth-street, near Broadway, and taken to his residence.

Michael Hoss, fourteen years old, of No. 15 East Fifty-fifth-street, was found prostrated by heat at the corner of Rose way and John street, and taken to the Park Hospital.

John Lynch, forty-seven years old, of No. 244 East Twenty-sixth-street, was found prostrated by heat at the corner of Twenty-sixth-street and Second-avenue, and taken to Bellevue Hospital.

The following record of Dr. Hutchinson's drug-store, No. 5 Park row, will show the changes in the temperature yesterday, with the average for the same, as indicated by the thermometer: 3 A. M., 78°; 6 A. M., 78°; 9 A. M., 81°; 12 M., 86°; 3 P. M., 90°; 6 P. M., 76°; 9 P. M., 71°; 12 P. M., 70°. Average temperature yesterday, 79½°.

OUT-DOOR SPORTS.

Yachting Matters, the Turf and the Ball Field.

The Brooklyn Yacht Club—The Bayonne Regatta—Saratoga Races—Defeat of the Mutuals by the Troy Club.

YACHTING.

Meeting of the Brooklyn Yacht Club—The Sarcoma Regatta.

The special meeting of the Brooklyn Yacht Club, to determine on the time of the annual cruise, was held at the Club-room last night, the President, Mr. P. W. Ostrander, in the chair. After ordinary business Rear-Commodore Dillon moved "that the Club fleet rendezvous at Glen Cove on the first Thursday of September, the 5th, at 2 sent hour as the Commodore may designate, and proceed thence on their annual cruise." The motion was unanimously carried.

Commodore Voorhis, through the Chairman, invited all the smaller yachts to participate in the cruise, assuring them that he would make such arrangements as would enable them all to join in the cruise and races that might ensue.

The special business of the meeting being transacted, the meeting adjourned.

THE BENNETT CUP RACE.

The race for the Bennett Cup, presented last year by Commodore Bennett, of the New-York Yacht Club, is to be competed for on the 25th of this month, the course to be from Sandy Hook to Newport and return, or from the same points to Cape May and return. All the largest and best schooner yachts of New-York and Brooklyn will enter, and a fine race will be the result, wind and weather permitting.

THE BAYONNE CLUB REGATTA.

The sixth annual and fifth union regatta of the Bayonne Yacht Club will come off on the 17th. The prizes will be

UNION PRIZES.

First.—A prize for all cabin sloop yachts over forty-five feet long on water line.

Second.—A prize for all cabin sloop yachts under forty-five feet long on water line.

Third.—A prize for all yachts, (open boats,) over twenty-four feet and under thirty-two feet long, mean length.

Fourth.—A prize for all yachts, (open boats,) over eighteen feet and under twenty-four feet long, mean length.

CLUB PRIZES.

Two prizes for each class of yachts—one to be called for on the day of the regatta, and the other (a flag officer's prize,) to be awarded on the first yacht home regardless of time allowance.

No yacht shall win more than one club prize; if the yacht winning the flag officer's prize also wins the Club prize on time allowance, the same shall be awarded to the next yacht on time allowance.

COURSE.

FIRST CLASS.—From the anchorage off Robin's Reef to and around the Light-ship, rounding it from northward to eastward, and return to stake-boat off the Club-house.

SECOND CLASS.—From the anchorage off the Club-house, to and around the monument on Romer Shoals, rounding it from northward to eastward, and return to stake-boat off the Club-house.

N. B.—All yachts to pass to the eastward of West Bank Buoys Nos. 11, 13, 15, and to the westward of Fort Lafayette and monument on Romer Shoals, near and returning.

THIRD CLASS.—From the anchorage off the Club-house to and around Fort Lafayette, rounding it from northward to eastward and return, sailing over the course three times.

FOURTH CLASS.—From the anchorage off the Club-house to and around the Robin's Reef Buoy, rounding it from northward to eastward, and return, sailing over the course three times.

All yachts to turn home stake-boat from northward to eastward.

TIME OF RACE.—If any yacht, in any class, makes the race in eight hours, it will be considered a race and not a match race.

Each yacht must carry the signal of the Club to which she may belong at the peak of mainsail, and also have the numbers placed on the centre of mainsail, which numbers will be furnished to each yacht on the morning of the race.

The positions of the competing yachts will be—

Sloops—first and time to the westward of Robin's Reef Light-house.

Sloops—second, third and fourth class—from an anchorage off the Club-house.

The Regatta Committee consists of Commodore G. A. Boland, H. B. Pearson and J. Watson Elsworth.

MATCH RACE.

The sloop yachts Jeanette and Meteor are to sail a match race on Monday next for $250 a side, starting from McGeehan's, Pamrapo, and sailing twenty miles to windward and back. As both are very fast boats, a lively race will be the result.

The Fleur de Lis, Vice-Commodore Dickerson, of the Brooklyn Yacht Club, is undergoing repairs and alterations, and will soon be ready for the water.

THE TURF.

The Saratoga Races.

No sooner have the musical echoes of the hoofs died away among the hills of New-Jersey than we are reminded that their clatter will soon be heard amidst the quiet shades of Saratoga. Already have the racing stables taken their departure to meet others from the far West and South, which have assembled at the Springs with all their strength. John Harper left Long Branch on Saturday, thus following on the heels of the fleeing McDaniel. The meeting begins on Saturday next, July 13, and will continue six days. The galaxy of racing stars at present at the Springs numbers nearly a hundred and fifty, and from this we should expect that the meeting will be full of excitement.

On the first day the Travers Stakes, for three-year olds, a mile and three-quarters, will be run. As this stake is one of the most valuable of the year, the contest for it is generally marked with a degree of interest greater than the decision of any other turf event. For the stake this year there is the large number of eighty-one entries, and the stake is worth $1,850. Col. McDaniel has four entries, namely, Longfellow, Harry Hubbard, and he expects to "gather it in;" but there are so many others who wish to put their fingers in the pie, that if the Colonel wins it, he will have to beat the fastest time on record. The second race is a sweepstakes, for all ages, a mile and a quarter. The race is worth $1,850 to the winner. There are twenty-three entries, among them Harry Bassett, Littleton, Dubman, Ortolan and Chillicothe. This will be a grand contest, and Bassett will have as much as he can do to defeat Uncle Harper's game little son of Leamington and Fanny Holton. The third race is the Flash Stakes for two-year olds, "five-and-a-half furlongs, or three quarters of a mile," and the Newcastle Cup at Shrewsbury, one mile. When four years old, the following year, he was started but five times, and captured the Chester Cup, of two and a quarter miles, the distance being the same as that for our Westchester and Saratoga Cups. In this race there were thirty-four horses started against him, but he cut them all down. His other win was the Goodwood Stakes of two and a half miles, and beat a field of eighteen. In 1857 he ran for the Cesarewitch, but did not gain a place, but in 1859 he again won the Chester Cup, but was defeated in his three other stakes, but got a place in each. During his turf career he started twenty-five times and won seven times. In 1860 Leamington was retired from the active scenes of the turf to do good service in the harem, and in 1866 he sired thirteen winners, who won thirty-three races, and among the best of his get were Catalogus, Coup d'Etat, Lemonade, &c. The desire to gain so admirable a stallion for this country was universal, especially to cross with the Lexington mares, which at this period (1864)—began to form our most valuable breeding stock. In 1865, the famous Eaveliffe stud was announced to be dispersed, in which were the fine stallions Newminster, Leamington, Claret, Jordan, and Fellow Buck. The sale took place on the 25th August of the same year, but before that Mr. Cameron purchased Leamington, together with other stock, which included the stallions Westminster by Newminster, Hartington by Voltigeur, and Hampton Court by Young Melbourne, and the mares Jerusalem by Jericho, Eleanor by Voltigeur, Casemate by Chatham, Babby Kingston and Maid of Honor by Newminster. They arrived at the port in October in good order, and Leamington soon stood at the head of the Clifton stud. About three years ago Mr. Cameron sold Leamington to Mr. Aristides Welch, of Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, who now owns him. There were many turfmen and breeders who predicted that the Leamington stud would not carry a distance at a rush rate of speed, but the recent performances of Longfellow and others of his get are indubitable proofs of their staying qualities, especially when they come from Lexington mares, as in the case of Enquirer and Lyttleton or the hard-bottomed Glencoe mares. The services of Leamington are now sought after by our breeders, and we are pleased to add that his progeny is rapidly increasing. As an exemplification of the high estimation in which Leamington is held by our turfmen, the fact may be mentioned that Mr. M. A. Luttell, of this City, bred no less than six mares to him last year, among them Fairy Clark, by Lexington, out of Eagless by Glencoe.

BASE BALL.

The Troys Defeat the Mutuals by 7 to 4.

The regular series between the Mutuals and Troys being already concluded, the match played between them on the Union Grounds yesterday was only an exhibition affair, not in any way affecting the championship, and consequently the attendance did not exceed 800 individuals. The showers which fell at intervals during the afternoon caused the suspension of the game twice, and eventually necessitated its conclusion on the eighth inning, the score being then 7 to 4 in favor of the Trojans. Both nines played finely, the Mutuals losing the game chiefly through the wild throwing of Bond, Pinkham and Hicks also making unfortunate errors, although Fulmer, in a measure, retrieved himself by several fine catches.

BURGLARS ARRESTED.

"Frenchy," the Noted Thief, Caught in the Second Ward—Operations of the Gang in Beekman-Street.

About a month ago the premises of William H. Fowler & Co. were entered by burglars, who stole 600 revolvers. The Police at once suspected a noted burglar known as "Frenchy," who affiliated with the gang of thieves at the corner of Wooster and West Houston streets, known as "Brunker's Gang." Search was made for him, but he could not be found. Yesterday morning he was caught in the act of perpetrating a similar burglary in the Second Precinct. Messrs. Lau & Garlich, wholesale dealers in guns, pistols and fancy cutlery, have their offices on the second and third floors of the building No. 72 Beekman-street. No. 73 Beekman-street is occupied on the first floor as a picture-store, and the remainder of the house is tenanted by different families. The hall door is open always, and through this vestibule access can easily be had to the roof of Messrs. Lau & Garlichs' premises. Roundsman Tinto entered Lau & Garlich's at 12 o'clock on Tuesday night, and found everything all right. Roundsman Kelly went in at 12½ and heard some one run rapidly upstairs. He saw the door open, and the place was speedily surrounded by officers from the Beekman-street Station. Officer Devine arrested, at the corner of Cliff-street, one Asher Hedden, a laborer, of No. 128 East Broadway, who he was thought had been acting as a "pipe," or "watcher" for the burglars. The Police then proceeded to Rivington and Bond-street stores, burglars had got on the roof, by the way of No. 75, and taking a small ladder out of the picture-frame establishment, cut a hole in the roof large enough to admit a man, and so lowered themselves by means of the ladder to the floor beneath. The Police then searched the premises, and found concealed behind some old rubbish in a room on the upper floor Roundsman Kelly discovered the noted "Frenchy." "Frenchy" had dropped his shoes during his flight from Messrs. Lau & Garlich's, and on secreting himself in the picture-frame factory, donned a pair of workmen's slippers. On being asked his name he coolly answered, "Thomas Smith," and volunteered the equally unimportant statement that he was a printer by trade, and resided in First-avenue, between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets. The mallets, cold-chisels, augers and jimmies used by the thieves were found by the Police. Both the prisoners on being arraigned at the Tombs yesterday, were held for examination.

The South-Side Railroad Disaster—Inquest on the Victims.

Coroner Whitehead held an inquest yesterday afternoon, in the case of Mrs. Rowe and her son, who died from the effects of injuries received by the disaster on the South-side Railroad on the evening of the 4th instant.

Mr. A. Braley, a passenger on the train coming from Rockaway, testified that at about 5 o'clock, the train came to the terminus of the double track, and made a halt of some fifteen minutes, and then ran on the single track; in a short time the other train was seen approaching; and was thrown on the track and the engine reversed; the engines came together, but he could not say whether the whistle was sounded more than once or not; thinks that if Conductor Lynch had used proper precaution the accident would have been avoided; no one was injured except those who had gone out on the platform; if they had kept their seats they would not have been injured; does not think that the conductor did anything to aid the wounded; did not see him after the accident.

John C. Kenshan, a reporter, testified that he was on the down train when the collision occurred. The conductor's name was Eathbone, and with Conductor Lynch appeared to be doing all they could for the injured passengers after the collision. The inquest was then adjourned.
